Cypress Widow Waits For Rendezvous With Death in Bushes Near Rails

Before the horrified gaze of nearly a score of Cypress residents, Tsuyako Yahiro, beautiful 22-year-old Japanese girl tragically ended her life at 5:40 p. m. yesterday by throwing herself under the wheels of a fast-moving Pacific Electric train in Cypress.

Widow Despondent

Heart-broken and despondent over the death of her youthful husband last October 2 at their modest little Cypress home, the young widow had hidden herself in a small clump of bushes beside the track to wait unseen for her rendezvous with death.

These are only a few of the facts in the sad story of death despair that were told to Coroner Earl Abbey, who was summoned to the scene shortly after the tragedy.

Inquest Tomorrow

Although having prepared a formal verdict of suicide in the case, Coroner Abbey told The Register today that he would conduct an inquest at 3 p. m. tomorrow at the Higgenfeld Funeral home in Anaheim, where the broken and badly mangled body of the young widow was taken.

From the first part of the investigation, Coroner Abbey heard a forlorn description of the absolute helplessness of the crew of the electric train, the Cypress residents who had seen or had talked to the girl perhaps an hour before the accident—the first death of its kind in Orange county this year—and of those who were riveted and startled by the sight of actual death plume.

Death Drama Revealed

"It was a death drama that moved silently and instantly," Coroner Abbey said today. "Before the mortician of the car knew what was happening, the girl was beneath

UTT MAY GET APPRAISER JOB

With the appointment of State Controller Ray L. Riley to the state railroad commission, and the naming of Harry B. Riley, former Long Beach assemblyman, to the office of state controller this week, the complexion of the state inheritance tax appraiser situation in Orange county changed suddenly.

Instead of Paul Witmer, former Santa Ana mayor and prominent Democrat, leading the pack of prospective appointees, reliable reports today pointed to ex-Assemblyman James B. Utt, of Fullerton, and Howard Irwin, of Fullerton, Republican county central committee chairman, as the likely appointees.

It is understood that the county will be divided into two districts, each having an appraiser.

Utt and Irwin were said to be on the inside track with the new controller, Riley, although rumor had it that certain northern Orange county political leaders were making an effort to secure the appointment of another candidate in that area.

At present the county is without an appraiser. The temporary appointment of R. C. Mize, of Santa Ana, to succeed the late John N. Anderson, expired at the end of 1936.

*STRIKE LEADER NEARS COLLAPSE

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 6.—(UP)—Harry Bridges, president of the International Longshoremen's association, Pacific coast district, was reported by colleagues today to be on the verge of a physical collapse.

Bridges, leader of the present coast maritime strike, was said to be suffering from ulcers of the stomach and to have neglected proper care during the more than two months of the present strike.

Colleagues were said to be considering requesting him to enter a hospital for treatment.

Starting early last night, Orange county's second rainstorm since Christmas increased seasonal totals in amounts ranging from 1.07 inches in Orange to .16 of an inch that had fallen up to 7 o'clock this morning in Newport Beach.

While the rain was general over the county, it was spotty as in Santa Ana where the total precipitation up to 7 o'clock was .38 of an inch as compared to the 1.07 inches that fell in Orange, three miles away and the one inch even, at West Orange.

The seasonal total for Santa Ana was brought up to 7.92 inches as compared to the 1.42 inches that had fallen at this time last year. The present total is slightly under the all year figure for this city last year when 8.78 inches of rain fell during the entire season of 1935.

The prediction is for more rain tonight and Thursday.

GLENN FRANK'S TRIAL STARTED

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 6.—(UP)—The University of Wisconsin has been paying "too much for window-dressing" with Dr. Glenn Frank, famed liberal educator, as its president, the university board of regents was told in extraordinary session today.

Denying the either politics or academic freedom was involved, Harold M. Wilkie, Madison attorney and regents' president, renewed in a 15,000 word statement his demand that Frank be ousted.

Students, alumni, legislators and newspapermen attended the meeting.

Frank and his friends have asserted the regents are motivated by political considerations, that Frank's frequent conflicts with Gov. Phil La Follette lies behind the attempt to remove him.

Submits Tax Returns

Frank has been a publicist more than a journalist, and more than a publicist, an executive or educator," Wilkie said. He offered Frank's income tax returns as evidence that he capitalized on his connection to increase his earnings by syndicate writings and lecturing in violation of his contract.

Wilkie said Frank in some years earned more from lectures and writing than his $24,000 state salary (now reduced to $15,000).

"I am satisfied in my own mind that a university president who is a real educator and lives and acts plainly will answer our purposes better and at less expense," Wilkie said. "We have been getting 'window dressing' instead of real education and executive service."

S. F. MEN SIGNED FOR SPANISH WAR

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 6.—(UP)—Enlistment of 100 fighting men to join the Spanish loyalist forces in their battle against insurgent armies was under way in San Francisco today.

Twenty men already have been recruited, it was learned.

The enlistment order was issued by Glen Trimble, state secretary of the Socialist party and assistant editor of the Labor Action, San Francisco labor paper.

Trimble said two World War veteran aviators, two artillerymen, one Chinese pilot, several chemists, one striking seaman and one ex-marine have signed up for duty in the civil war.

The group will join 500 volunteers in New York, known as the Debs brigade. These in turn will join the international brigade in Spain, where they will be armed and assigned to duty on the front lines, Trimble said.

The Debs brigade will sail from New York January 19.

PRESIDENT DELIVERS ANNUAL MESSAGE

Here are four candid camera closeups of President Roosevelt, who delivered his annual message to Congress today. Conditions at home and abroad were outlined by the president in his speech. The speech was broadcast over a national hookup. His annual budget speech will be given before Congress January 8.

TAX REPORTS SHOW INCOMES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—(UP)—Congress, in gossipy "blue book" fashion, today disclosed the names of several thousand Americans who made more than $15,000 in salaries and commissions or bonuses in 1935.

Heart In Lead

They included: Publisher William Randolph Hearst, $500,000; Mae West, $480,832; C. W. Guttzeit, Latrobe, Pa., steel executive, $338,803; Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., General Motors corporation president, $374,505; Marlene Dietrich, $369,000; W. R. Sheehan, president of Twentieth Century-Fox film corporation, $344,230; William F. Knudsen, General Motors executive vice president, $325,859; Bing Crosby, $318,907; R. D. Miller, president of F. W. Woolworth company, $309,880; and Thomas J. Watson, president of the International Business Machine company, $296,028.

The treasury department furnished the figures to congress today. The figures are an income tax law passed two years ago. Income from investments is not included.

Laurel Income $156,266

Other interesting facts and figures revealed by the list:

That Stan Laurel ($156,266) makes almost twice as much as his comedy partner, Oliver Hardy ($85,316).

That Walter Winchell drew more as a radio star ($77,500) than he did as columnist for the New York Mirror ($60,660).

That Max Baer's acting brought him $16,677 from Paramount productions.

That Seymour Weiss, Louisiana political associate of the late Huey P. Long, earned $92,390 as vice president of the "Win or Lose" corporation.

That Charlie Chaplin of the films earned $260,000 as head of his own production house.

That Shirley Temple's acting brought her $69,999.

MEXICANS PREDICT TROTSKY TROUBLE

HERMOSILLO, Sonora, Mexico, Jan. 6.—(UP)—Mexican business men and official sources warned today that the arrival of Leon Trotsky in Mexico may cause trouble in the United States.

"You Americans are the ones who should worry about Trotsky," they told a United Press correspondent. "Trotsky always conducts his propaganda in countries adjoining the one in which he lives in exile, not in that of his hosts."

While they said openly they disapproved the Mexican federal government's offer of sanctuary to the one-time Russian bolshevik leader, they also declared the government would prevent his interference in Mexican domestic affairs.

"You Americans can expect to hear plenty from him, though," they added.

THIEVES GET $300

SAN PEDRO, Jan. 6.—(UP)—Rope climbing ability aided unknown safe crackers in entering a department store early today and escaping with $300 in cash.

Manager Gordon B. McCorkell said the burglars climbed to the roof from an adjacent signboard, chopped a hole in the roof with an axe and dropped into the store on rope. After punching the combination from the safe and pilfering it, the suspects shimmied up the rope with their loot.

UNION PLANS TO UNIONIZE MILLION MEN

Campaign in Oil Industry Outlined by Fremming at Council Meeting

LONG BEACH, Cal., Jan. 6.—(UP)—Plans to unionize 1,000,000 oil workers under John L. Lewis' committee for industrial organization and to seek congressional aid if necessary to enforce a 36-hour work week and a $5 minimum wage were disclosed here today by Harvey C. Fremming, president of the International Oil Workers' union.

Drive Starts April 1

Fremming informed the union's executive council that the membership drive to recruit all oil industry employees, including filling station attendants, would be started April 1.

"We expect that John L. Lewis personally will direct this membership drive," Fremming said. "Including filling station operators, there are a million employees in the oil industry in the United States eligible to membership under the CIO plan."

May Seek Amendment

Plans for both the membership drive and an outline of demands were being prepared by the executive council, which convened here yesterday for a two day session. Fremming said an effort would be made to reach an amicable agreement with employers but if this course failed, congressional action would be sought either through a labor amendment to the Liles oil bill or by new legislation drafted

REBEL TROOPS LAUNCH ATTACK

MADRID, Jan. 6.—(UP)—Rebel troops, determined to capture Madrid after weeks of futile siege, began a terrific aerial and artillery bombardment today on the heart of the city, concentrating their fire again on the tall telephone building.

The shelling followed desultory artillery fire during the day. Shells crashed all around the telephone building while the switchboard girls stuck to their posts.

Foreign reporters wrote their dispatches on the fourth floor in the building—one of the few remaining links between the outside world and the war torn capital. Bricks, glass and mortar fell from direct hits high up on the battered building.

The bombardment was the most intense the building has suffered since the rebels reached the outskirts of Madrid and began the destructive siege for control of the capital.

As the shelling became hotter the telephone girls were ordered to leave their boards and seek safety in the basement.

PREPARE TO BUILD TWO NEW WARSHIPS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—(UP)—The United States is expected to be entered officially Friday in the world's naval arms race, it was indicated in official circles today.

President Roosevelt intimated he will announce instructions that day to begin construction on two $50,000,000 battleships. They will replace two of the navy's floating fortresses now over-age.

Laying of the keels for the two will add 70,000 tons of fighting craft to the total now under construction in U. S. shipyards and again place the United States in the lead among all sea powers in both the number of warships and the tonnage under construction.

At present the United States is outbuilding Japan better than two tons to one, and is well ahead of Great Britain.

The British government last week laid keels for two battleships. Japan is expected to follow suit soon. France is already building two superdreadnaughts, and is expected soon to lay the keels for two more. Italy is building two, and may build another pair. Germany, constructing a navy practically from scratch, is building three capital ships, and may build several more.

Club May Oust Member For Telling Truth

BURLINGTON, Wis., Jan. 6.—(UP)—Matt Weiler, Wetaskiwin, Alberta, Canada, farmer who said he raised potatoes eight and one-half inches long and four inches through, may lose his membership in the Burlington Liars' club, officials indicated today. The charge, most serious club offense, is that he told the truth.

RILEY PREDICTS STATE SURPLUS

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 6.—(UP)—A prediction was made today that revenue during the next biennium would balance a $440,000,000 budget, wipe out the deficit and leave a surplus of $15,000,000 in the state treasury by June 30, 1939.

Optimistic Picture

Controller Ray L. Riley, as one of his last official acts before relinquishing his post to his successor, Harry B. Riley, of Long Beach, and becoming a member of the railroad commission, estimated revenues which he expects will pour into the treasury during the next two years and cheered legislators with an optimistic picture of the future.

He believed the total budget for 1937-39 would be about $440,000,000, instead of the $431,000,000 limit of two years ago, but he estimated that present revenues would be sufficient to meet all expenses, retire a deficit expected to amount to $40,000,000 at the end of this biennium and give the 1939 legislature a surplus and an opportunity to trim taxes.

Ten Tax Bills

Riley's prediction was a highlight of the third day of the legislative session as California lawmakers resumed the introduction of bills. The lowered necessity for new revenue was reflected in the comparative scarcity of tax measures included among the legislative proposals.

Most important piece of business adopted by the assembly after the meeting convened was the adoption of a concurrent resolution authorizing the removal of Justice Gavin Craig and providing for a joint meeting of the assembly and senate March 8 to give Craig an opportunity to appear and defend himself.

Bill Prohibits Dogs

Another senate bill would prohibit the use of any kind of drug in or on racing horses and dogs.

Senator Ed Fletcher, San Diego, submitted a bill to tax Diesel oil "or make butane gas free."

Bills introduced in the assembly included the following:

A new measure by Assemblyman Hunt and George B. Miller to limit freight trains to 70 cars and passenger trains to 14 cars. A similar bill was vetoed by Gov. Frank P. Merriam after the last session.

A bill to permit the killing of only one deer per person each season and prohibiting the killing of forked horn mule deer.

Memorializing congress to adopt laws requiring mandatory arbitration of all strikes.

A bill by Assemblyman Yorty to license racing bookmakers and require payment of 12 per cent of the bets to the state. The revenue would be used to help finance old age pensions.

Introduction of bills was started in the senate, one of the first being a revenue bond measure which would authorize political subdivisions to vote bond measures to purchase public utilities.

Four Men Face Terms In Prison

OAKLAND, Cal., Jan. 6.—(UP)—Four maritime unionists convicted of second degree murder in the slaying of George Alberts, chief engineer of the freighter Port Lobos, will be sentenced by Superior Judge Frank M. Ogden Monday at 10 a. m. it was announced today. Imprisonment of five years to life is required by California law.

A jury of six men and six women after conferring five and one-half hours, returned the guilty verdict to climax a seven week trial in which Earl Kings, E. G. Ramsay, Frank J. Conner and George Wallace, officials of the Maritime Firemen's union, were accused of conspiring to kill Alberts.

SWANSON RECOVERS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—(UP)—Secretary of the Navy Claude A. Swanson today was reported recovered from a fainting spell which he suffered last night at a White House reception.

HIGH COURT GETS REBUKE IN MESSAGE

No Need for Amendment to Legalize NRA, Roosevelt Tells Congress

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—(UP)—Congress rapped today through neutrality legislation late today to halt all shipments of American arms to Spain's warring factions.

Spared by news that a Spanish freighter had just steamed out to open sea bearing a cargo of American arms for the loyalist forces, the house after brisk debate, approved a resolution already passed by the senate which forbids such shipments.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—(UP)—There is no vital need for a constitutional amendment to legalize NRA, President Roosevelt informed Congress today in a message in which he asked for authority to embargo shipments of munitions to Spain.

Program Outlined

The president said circumstances compelled him at this time to ask for:

1—Legislation to extend the life of certain expiring authorizations and powers previously voted.

2—Further neutrality legislation to meet conditions created by the Spanish civil war.

3—A deficiency appropriation for the current fiscal year.

A few moments before he addressed the packed chamber, Congress completed its formal task of counting the electoral votes and certifying Roosevelt and Garner winners in November's election. It made ready, too, for quick action as soon as the president's message was delivered to pass the emergency Spanish neutrality resolution.

Freighter Departs

The need for speed in enactment of the Spanish resolution, Congress realized, was only too real. As members sat listening to Mr. Roosevelt's address reports arrived that even at that moment a freighter loaded with war materials for Spain sailed from New York.

Absent from the scene as the president spoke were the black-robed justices of the supreme court. Busy hearing argument in their $10,000,000 marble hall of justice across from the capitol, they did not hear the president's frank criticism of their constitutional interpretations and his flat rebuke that:

"The process of our democracy

MATTSON FEARS FOR YOUNG SON

TACOMA, Wash., Jan. 6.—(UP)—Dr. William Mattson today indicated he had no contact with the kidnaper of his 10-year-old son, Charles, and that he feared for the safety of his boy.

In his second dramatic public statement in three days, Dr. Mattson appealed to the press to stop watching his home, to which he hopes his son, kidnapped 19 days ago, may soon return.

Newspapermen have maintained a 24-hour vigil across the street from the Mattson's home and chronicled every move made by persons going to or from the house.

"I do not know in what condition my boy will be found," Dr. Mattson said, amplifying his typewritten statement. "He may be knocking at death's door. He was so lightly clad when he was kidnapped and was just recovering from a cold that he may be in an extremely dangerous condition."

MAN SEVERELY BURNED WHEN ACID EXPLODES

Wrapped in flames yesterday when a container of carbon bisulphide exploded in his automobile, Archie Stuck, 35, of Garden Grove, is in the St. Joseph's hospital seriously injured.

Stuck was returning to his home from Santa Ana where he had purchased the chemical to be used as an orchard spray. The chemical, in a five gallon glass container was in the rear of his automobile. As the machine was traveling along Harbor boulevard the container exploded spraying Stuck's body and the interior of the car with the flaming liquid which was ignited in the sudden blast.

Stopping his automobile Stuck leaped to the road and attempted to extinguish the flames by rolling on the ground. O. P. Grepsch, Anaheim, who was driving behind the stuck car, helped to extinguish Stuck's flaming clothing and placed the injured man in his own automobile rushing him to Santa Ana where he was given first aid treatment by Dr. John Wehrly and removed to the hospital. The automobile was totally destroyed by flames.

the wheels, and a crowd was rushing to the scene.

The car was a southbound Santa Ana coach, with H. S. Cartwright, of 1425 Cypress street, Santa Ana, at the controls, and in charge of C. Wild, of Rural Route No. 4, Santa Ana, conductor.

"It was only a short time before we learned that the girl had been seen by several residents when she was sitting forlornly in the telephone booth of the Cypress post office," Coroner Abbey said.

"I was told by Albert Kris, also of Cypress, that he had been asked by the girl about 4:30 p. m. to help her in dialing a Los Angeles number. Kris assisted her. Then as soon as he heard of her death, he contacted the telephone supervisor in Anaheim, and traced the girl's call to her brother-in-law, whose name was not learned, in Los Angeles.

Overcome With Grief
"It was also ascertained that she had told her relative of her pendency. Her relative, having been told by her that she had no money, said he would come to Cypress for her early Wednesday morning. But apparently the girl was overcome with her grief and her plight, and decided within a short time after the call that death was the only way out."

Mrs. Yahiro had been married only about a month. The coroner said before her husband died of natural causes. Her father, who comes from a prominent Japanese family, is A. Takeguma, long-time resident of Anaheim.

MRS. PENROSE DIES IN SAN FRANCISCO

Word was received here today of the death, yesterday in San Francisco of Mrs. Lillian W. Penrose, 58, a long time resident of this city. Mrs. Penrose died at the home of her son, William Penrose, where she was taken four weeks ago when she became ill.

In addition to the son in whose home she died Mrs. Penrose is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Lillian Miller, Santa Ana Gardens; Mrs. Ellen Flynn, Corvallis, Ore.; and Mrs. Margaret Cason, South Gate, Calif.

Funeral services probably will be held in San Francisco.

SIX SPEEDERS PAY CITY COURT FINES

Six speeders were fined in city court yesterday. They were S. L. Rothfuss, 610 West Second, Santa Ana, $5; W. Hartley Davis, 1301 Cypress, Santa Ana, $5; H. W. Buttermann, Orange, $5; Allan Taylor, Claremont, $5; Richard Intorf, sailor of the USS Texas, Bremerton, Wash., $5, and Don Greelis, Hollywood, $5. Fred Luce paid $2 for jumping a boulevard stop. Charles Clark paid a $1 fine and bought a $1 dog license after he was haled into court for failure to obtain the license.

Six Acre Tract Sold Near Park

Making the ninth plot to be sold in that area to date, sale of a six-acre tract of orange land, formerly owned by the Bixby company, was reported today.

The property located on a recent development on Santiago Creek, below Irvine park, was purchased by Reno P. Wheeler, of Anaheim, at a reported consideration of $550 per acre. The sale was negotiated by George Lemke.

Development of the section in which the property is located was started by the Bixby company three years ago and includes 90 acres of land, all of which is located in the Carpenter irrigation district.

STATE INCOME TAX OFFICE OPENS IN SANTA ANA TODAY

The income tax division of the state of California opened an office today at 308 West Fifth street for the accommodation of that portion of the Orange county public which is on the "eligible list" for payment of the tax, and an income tax examiner from Los Angeles, has been placed in charge to offer assistance in filling out return forms, furnishing advice regarding the tax and providing necessary return forms.

Single persons, with net income of $1000, or more, or married persons (living with husband or wife), with net income of $5000, or more, or gross income of $5000, or more, must file a return. The filing must be completed on or before April 15.

A telephone has just been installed at the state income tax headquarters. It is Santa Ana 4435. "I will be pleased to offer such advice as can be conveniently given, by telephone," the examiner declared. "But, of course, it is necessary to file the returns at the office."

The hours will be from 9 a. m. to 1 p. m. and from 2 p. m. to 5 p. m. daily, except Saturday and Sunday. The office will be closed Sunday but on Saturday, will be open from 9 a. m. to 12 noon, the examiner said.

The state income tax is 1 per cent up to $5000 income and increases gradually, on a graduated scale upward, as the income is greater. For example, a single man with income of $1500 per year, and without exemptions, is taxed 1 per cent of $500, being exempted up to $1000. The married man with income of $2000 per year, and with exemptions amounting to $150, is taxed 1 per cent of $550, being exempted $2500.

Showing, briefly, the method of graduating the tax upward, the following figures are presented:

Income, $5000 to $10,000—tax, $50 flat rate plus 2 per cent of amount over $5000; income, $10,000 to $15,000—tax, $150 flat rate plus 3 per cent of amount over $10,000; income, $15,000 to $20,000—tax, $300 flat rate plus 4 per cent of amount over $15,000; and so on upward. For income, $150,000 to $250,000, the tax is $24,450 flat rate plus 14 per cent of amount over $150,000.

The examiner at the local office declared that the assistance service offered those who file returns, is free.

CITY'S FIRE LOSS FOR YEAR IS $4228

Annual report of Santa Ana's fire department, presented today by Fire Chief John Luxembourger, as prepared by Fire Marshal Elmer Gates, revealed only a loss of $4228 in fires involving $636,325 worth of property.

The firemen answered 192 calls during the year, including 13 rescue calls. Of the rescue calls, four were successful, four were suicide cases and five were dead on arrival.

Buildings involved in fires for the year were valued at $802,850, with loss to them of $2466.72. Contents involved were valued at $333,475, with loss of $1762.21.

During the year, four persons were arrested for violation of the trash burning ordinance—the first of such arrests ever made here.

Billy Papke's Will Probated

POMONA, Cal., Jan. 6.—(UP)—Billy Papke's will disposing of a $25,000 estate has been admitted to probate in superior court here. It was disclosed today.

The former world's middleweight champion prize-fighter shot his estranged wife to death and killed himself on Balboa Island, Nov. 26. His estate was left to the wife, Edna, and three sons, William A. Robert P., and Clifford Papke.

SOVIET RANKS ACHIEVEMENTS HIGH FOR 1936

MOSCOW (UP)—The year 1936 for the Soviet Union was a period of economic progress, strained international relations and international political change. A new liberal constitution was adopted, while remaining Trotsky adherents and elements hostile to the Stalin regime were vigorously repressed.

Proclaimed the only truly democratic constitution in the world, the new Soviet document laid the basis for a continuing "dictatorship of the proletariat" and set forth a wide range of rights, duties and privileges of citizens.

It established a supreme council of two equal chambers as the supreme governing body, and the socialist system of economy, socialist ownership of means of production and elimination of "exploitation of man by man" as the economic foundation of the U.S.S.R.

New Department Created
A new commissariat of war industries was set up as distinct from the commissariat of heavy industry which formerly embraced such production.

The franchise was extended to all citizens of 18 years or older, suffrage made equal and direct by secret ballot. Work, rest and education, freedom of speech, assembly and demonstration, and freedom from arrest except by court order were guaranteed. Men and women and all nationalities and races were declared equal in all spheres. The rights to worship and to conduct anti-religious propaganda were established.

These rights, speakers at the adopting congress pointed out, are to be established in consistency with the rule of the working class under the leadership of the Communist party and enemies of the monolithic state are to be suppressed. Freedom of expression will not extend to advocacy of capitalism or Trotskyism or other anti-social activity.

The campaign against Trotskyism, which reached a high point in August with trial and execution of 16 defendants, including Leo Kameny and Gregori Zinoviev, and companions of Lenin in the revolution, continued throughout the year.

Radek Faces Trial
Karl Radek, Russia's most noted journalist, was under arrest and waiting trial, as were Piatakov, former vice-commissar of heavy industry, and scores of lesser figures.

In international affairs, emphasis shifted to the west. Japanese relations improved, but were hurt with publication of the German-Japanese agreement against Communism, which the U.S.S.R. regarded as a military alliance.

Border conflicts in the Far East decreased.

Likewise, the attitude toward the Spanish revolution, a vigorous anti-Fascist campaign and arrest of nearly 30 German citizens on charges of spying and sabotage relations with the Reich.

Russia firmly supported by diplomacy and shipment of food and clothing the established Spanish government. Italian sympathy for the insurgent cause harmed relations with Rome, culminating in a vigorous diplomatic protest against alleged discrimination against Soviet ships and seamen in Italian ports.

The attitude of Great Britain in the London non-intervention committee was a disappointment to the Soviet foreign office, and relations with France, although good on the surface, were not up to expectations.

Finland Ties Weaker
Polish relations remained more or less on a level, but with Finland deteriorated, particularly because of minor border incidents and allegations that Finland installed air-ports near the border on German instigation.

A trade agreement with the United States providing for a minimum of $30,000,000 purchases in America was signed. Re-election of President Roosevelt was regarded with approval.

The most important decree on internal affairs during the year was that abolishing abortions, tightening divorce regulations and encouraging large families by bonus and subsidy.

The Torgsin stores were closed, eliminating use of foreign currency as a medium of exchange, and the rouble was tied to the French gold franc at the ratio of three to one, later amended to maintain the same ratio when the franc was devalued.

The age of conscription to the army was lowered from 21 to 19 years. Existence of steel and concrete fortifications on the Polish and Far Eastern frontiers was revealed, and the air force announced as more than 7000 planes, the largest in the world.

Construction of a powerful navy was pursued with energy in all categories.

The second five-year plan was fulfilled in all major branches, one year ahead of time.

4000 MUNITIONS LICENSES ISSUED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—(UP)—The National Munitions board, composed of five cabinet members, today reported to congress that more than 4,000 licenses were issued last year to ship munitions abroad.

With the filing of the Santa Ana police department's annual report today, submitted by Desk Sergeant B. F. Lutz to Police Chief Floyd Howard, it was revealed that 1936 led 1935 by a wide margin, in arrests for drunk driving, burglarly and vagrancy, and traffic accidents as well as injuries and deaths in traffic, went upward.

During 1936, 5734 arrests were made, as against 4593 for 1935. A record "crop" of drunk drivers was "harvested" in 1936—107—as against 69 for 1935, Sergeant Lutz report shows.

Thirty-five persons were arrested on burglary charges in 1936, 24 in 1935; 94 vagrancy arrests were recorded in 1936, with 59 recorded in 1935. Last year, 191 traffic accidents were recorded as against 170 the previous year; 259 were injured in those accidents of 1936, while 235 were injured in the 1935 accidents; eight persons were killed in Santa Ana last year—four in 1935.

A comparison of figures shows arrests as follows: 1935 and 1936, in that order: For other cities, 20 and 19; assault, 36-25; battery, 11-11; assault with deadly weapon, 3-10; bench warrants, 41-95; book-making, 0-2; burglary, 24-35; carrying concealed weapons, 4-4; city license ordinance, 5-12; contributing to delinquency of minor, 1-4; defrauding innkeeper, 2-2; disturbing peace, 23-18.

Drunk, 764-768; drunk driving, 69-107; forgery, 0-4; fictitious checks, 0-11; grand theft, auto, 23-5; grand theft, 2-5; manufacturing liquor, 0-2; morals cases, 2-3; murder, 1-1; petty theft, 36-37; robbery, 10-0; runaway boys, 3-11; runaway girls, 5-5; vagrancy, 69-94; California Vehicle act, 814-1545; city traffic ordinances, 2558-2447—total, 4593-5734.

Using the same comparison, for 1935 and 1936, respectively, police station calls answered were 5236-5070; car calls by radio, 3109-3643; doors found open, 112-60; windows found open, 56-27; auto thefts, 80-69; autos recovered, 80-67; autos recovered for other cities, 5-3; bicycles stolen, 147-122; bicycles recovered, 73-71; property stolen, $41,859-$33,923; property recovered, $25,935-$24,699.

The December and November reports for 1936, show decrease of arrests in December; the arrest record was December 448, November 484. Comparison of the records shows that arrests are usually during November and December, at holiday time.

SEEK TO UNIONIZE MILLION WORKERS

along the lines of the Guffey coal bill.

"The council," he said, "will address a communication to the Independent Oil Producers' Association of America, the American Petroleum Institute, the California Oil and Gas association, and the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association, asking them to take steps immediately to equalize working hours and wages throughout the industry."

36-Hour Week
"The minimum basis will be a 36-hour week and $5 a day. We hope that the necessary changes will be brought about by the leaders in the industry. If this fails, however, we will be forced to seek congressional assistance, either through a labor amendment to the Ickes bill or a new act of congress to be drafted along the lines of the Guffey coal measure."

PLACE BLAME FOR HEADACHE
LONDON, Ont. (UP)—The "morning after" headache is caused by spinal fluid, Dr. J. Milton Robb, of Detroit, told the Ontario Medical Association at its annual meeting here. He said alcohol promotes the secretion of the fluid, and either too much of it, or too little, causes headaches.

The University of Paris was founded about 1200 by King Philip II.

DEATH NOTICES

A WORD OF COMFORT

No one can transmit his experience to fit you to bear your sorrow and to ward off weakness, doubt and desolation. You must stand on your own feet and use your own tools. Others may encourage and comfort you but at heart you must win your own battle. There is only one who can help you, but His strength is vouchsafed within your own heart. Even He cannot give courage and power to triumph unless you strive to do your best. When you do, He makes you unconquerable.

GAME WARDEN W. E. ADKINSON LOSES OFFICE

The march of progress yesterday eliminated the office of county fire and game warden in Orange county, and thereby removed a highly-respected official of long service from public life.

The office held for nearly 26 years by W. E. Adkinson, of Trabuco, father of County School Superintendent Ray Adkinson, was abolished by the county supervisors yesterday, at the recommendation of Chairman Willard Smith, forestry committee chairman for the board.

Smith explained that since the state forestry department now has its fire prevention service established in Orange county, covering areas outside of national forests, which are patrolled by the U. S. forestry service, there is no longer need for the county game warden. The state service likewise covers game-law enforcement, Smith said.

Warden Adkinson was appointed to the office May 3, 1911, to succeed W. K. Robinson.

Abolishment of the office effects a saving of $100 per month to the county payroll.

DR. JOHNSTON IN ADDRESS IN S. A.

Exercise, fresh air and a careful check on nervous reactions, are among the many doctors of the "Physiology of Middle Age," the subject on which Dr. Herbert A. Johnston, of Anaheim, spoke to nearly 100 men in the east lobby of the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A. last night.

Dr. Johnston's address was the first of a series of lectures that will be heard each Tuesday evening at the Y. M. C. A., excepting Jan. 19, up to and including Feb. 16. The meetings are free and open to every man in the city and county. Ralph C. Smoot, general secretary of the institution, pointed out today.

After Dr. Johnston's lecture, one of the most interesting of the series, the meeting was turned over to questions and answers that dealt with the subject under discussion by the medical expert.

"The Heart and Digestive System in Middle Age," is the subject of the next lecture and will be discussed by Dr. M. W. Hollingsworth, of Santa Ana.

CHRISTMAS SEALS SALES SHOW GAIN

Contributions to the Orange County Tuberculosis and Health association through the sale of Christmas Seals, while not yet reaching the $10,000 goal are 25 per cent higher than they were at this time last year according to Edna Hewitt Smith, executive secretary of the organization.

It is still possible for the organization to reach its goal, Miss Smith said. She pointed out that there are 10,750 people in the county who have not yet sent in the cash for seals mailed them at Thanksgiving time.

In her report she said that 7038 letters were mailed to residents of Santa Ana and 25,447 to residents of the county. Of the city list 1934 have replied with contributions amounting to $2490.95. In the county 14,657 people have sent in their contributions amounting to $3850.16.

At this time last year, according to the report Santa Anans had contributed $1934.60 while the county as a whole had turned in $5360.93.

Local Briefs

Mrs. Roscoe Hewitt, long-time proprietor of the Book Nook, lending library at 407 North Broadway has sold out her interests in the place and it will be operated at a new location in the future, under new management, it was announced today. The library will be located in the future in the Ann Thompson Realty building, 1416 North Main.

Directors of the Crippled Children's Relief association of Orange county will hold their regular monthly meeting at noon Friday, according to an announcement sent out by Miss E. Kate Rea, secretary of the group. The meeting will be held in Santa Ana at the Doris-Kathryn Tea Shoppe.

Miss Clara Cronenwett will give her monthly lecture on flower arrangement at the Willard Junior High school tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock. Her subject will be "Line."

More than 200 persons were in attendance at the various prayer-week services conducted in seven Santa Ana churches last evening. It was reported today. The services continue every evening through Friday.

Wind velocity yesterday averaged 3 m.p.h., according to records at the Santa Ana Junior college meteorological station. Temperatures ranged from 41 degrees at 3 a. m. to 59 at 1 p. m. Relative humidity was 64 per cent at 4 p. m.

Painting from still life will be offered as well as life drawing in the Thursday evening sketching class—conducted by Arthur Ames and Jean Goodwin in the Willard Evening High school. Instruction will be given in water color, pastel or oil. Individual criticism will be given. The class meets from 7 to 9 o'clock in room 118 of the Willard Junior High school.

THREE NEW COUNTY OFFICIALS QUALIFY FOR OFFICES TODAY

Three new county officials, appointed to office yesterday by the county supervisors in an epochal administrative turnover, today qualified for their respective offices, Jack Snow of Santa Ana becoming county welfare director, Eugene Fenelon, of Newport Beach, assuming charge of the county purchasing department, and Assistant Highway Superintendent Arthur A. Beard becoming chief of the highway department.

None of the new officials have planned immediate reorganization of office personnel. "It's too soon to say what will be done," was the substantially identical answer in each case, to questions on that point.

This morning, Snow and Fenelon qualified for office by posting the required bonds and taking the oath, the bond being $5000 in Snow's case and $2000 for Fenelon. A $5000 bond is required in the highway department.

Jack Snow, the new welfare director, came to the office from the post of chief of property and finance division with SRA in Santa Ana, which he has held for about two and a quarter years. He graduated from Stanford University with the class of 1927. Snow is a native of Santa Ana, born here in 1905. He is a son of the late J. Edmund Snow, former Santa Ana realtor, and Mrs. Edith Johnston Snow; a grandson of the late John Johnston, and a nephew of Dean Johnson. He is married and has a seven-year-old daughter.

Eugene Fenelon, now the county's purchasing agent, is a Newport Beach rancher who has lived in the county 26 years and in Newport Beach 15 years. He is a member of the present county board of supervisors. He is married. Arthur A. Beard, the new highway superintendent, merely rises a step in the department of which he has been assistant chief for ten years. He came to the department January 15, 1927, when his former chief, Nat Neff was appointed head of the department. Both had been in the Santa Ana city engineer's office.

Beard studied engineering at the University of Wyoming, with a special two-year course at the University of Iowa. He is married and has a son, Arthur Jr., age 15.

The retiring officials today were without definite plans for the immediate future, they stated.

Byron V. Curry, ex-welfare head, who occupied the office since October, 1931, will depart for the East within several days for his first vacation in five years. He will visit in Kansas, where he was formerly state bank examiner, and probably will go on to Indiana to visit his father, he said.

Dr. F. W. Slabaugh, former purchasing agent, who occupied that post for 18 years, also will take a long-deferred vacation, he said. Meanwhile he is considering several business plans.

The retiring highway superintendent, Nat H. Neff, like the others, has no definite plans. He has an engineering career of 25 years in Santa Ana, starting before there was a paved highway or street in the county, except Fourth and Main, Santa Ana. He first served in the city engineer's office, and from 1913 to 1925 was engineer for the county highway commission. Later he served as Santa Ana city engineer for two years, until he was appointed county highway superintendent ten years ago, January 1, 1927.

Appointments Legal
Discussion of the possibility that yesterday's official appointments were not legal, because only two members of the board, a minority, voiced their "aye" votes, got little attention in official circles, where the board's action was viewed as entirely legal. County Clerk J. M. Backs pointed out that the supervisors who failed to vote vocally when the motion of appointment was put automatically are recorded as "ayes" unless asking definitely to be recorded as voting "no." The board minutes, thus show a majority vote favoring each appointment made yesterday.

Dr. Slabaugh today issued a statement, congratulating the county supervisors on their selection of his successor, saying:

"I want to congratulate the supervisors upon their selection of my successor. I know him to be a man that is entitled to their confidence and support.

"I leave the employ of the county with sincere appreciation of the splendid co-operation that the members of the official family and the employees of Orange county have always given me. It was a pleasure to have been associated with them."

Windows "Gone With The Wind" Today

"Gone with the wind" at 6 a. m. today, two plate glass windows at the Pagenkopp service station, 120 South Main, crashed to the ground with a roar, city police learned upon investigation.

A sudden gust of wind which started up with a rain flurry, sent the window glass splintering about the service station property. Bert Green, driver for the Excelsior creamery, reported the "act of God" to Officers J. W. Foster and H. E. Holmes. "Just gone with the wind," Officer Foster reported.

SALESMAN IS ARRESTED ON CHECK CHARGE

Accused of issuing 13 fictitious checks to Charles and Edmond C. Guard, local druggists at 823 South Main and 1301 North Main, during three days at holiday time, when the banks were closed, Paul J. O'Malley, 39-year-old salesman, of 511 1-2 East Washington street, yesterday afternoon was arrested by Officers Charles Wolford and Charles Neer, at 505 East Washington street, and jailed.

The total amount of the checks was $78.

"I have been on a long drunk and have had the toothache, too, and I don't remember what I've been doing," O'Malley explained to the officers, they reported.

The checks were issued on the First National Bank of Santa Ana. Judge Kenneth Morrison in Santa Ana justice court, yesterday afternoon set bail at $1500 and set preliminary examination for next Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock.

POLICE CHIEFS TO ASK COURT TEST OF GAMES

City police chiefs and commissioners of Orange county, in session at the courthouse last night, framed a formal request to Sheriff Logan Jackson that he make arrests of marble-machine operators in order to determine by court test the legality of such devices.

The municipal officers were called into the conference by District Attorney W. F. Menton, who informed them that the state had ruled the marble machines and similar devices illegal, and issued notice through the attorney-general's office that local enforcement officials should act against the machines.

Through an oversight in the district attorney's office, Sheriff

Jackson himself was not notified the meeting was to be held, and therefore was absent.

Some of the assembled police heads were reported to have expressed resentment over a recent newspaper interview in which the sheriff was quoted as announcing that if the local police departments did not take steps against the marble machines, "the sheriff's office would."

The formal request, which District Attorney Menton was asked to transmit to Sheriff Jackson, was that Jackson take the necessary steps, by making arrests, to precipitate a test of the issue in court.

Last night's meeting was held in the courtroom of department three, superior court.

NEUTRALITY MEASURES ASKED BY PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT IN ANNUAL MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—(UP)—Following is the text of President Roosevelt's annual message to congress on the state of the nation:

To the congress of the United States:
For the first time in our national history a president delivers his annual message to a new congress within a fortnight of the expiration of his term of office.

While there is no change in the life for the average man. The deeper purpose of democratic government is to assist as many of its citizens as possible—especially those who need it most—to improve their conditions in life, to retain all personal liberty which does not adversely affect their neighbors, and to pursue the happiness which comes with security and an opportunity for recreation and culture.

Even with our present recovery we are far from the goal of that deeper purpose. There are far-reaching problems still with us for which democracy must find solutions if it is to consider itself successful.

For example, many millions of Americans still live in habitations which not only fail to provide the physical benefits of modern civilization but breed disease and impair the health of future generations. The menace exists not only in the slum areas of the very large cities, but in many smaller cities as well. It exists on tens of thousands of farms, in varying degrees, in every part of the country.

Tenant Farming
Another example is the prevalence of an un-American type of tenant farming. I do not suggest that every farm family has the capacity to earn a satisfactory living on its own farm. But many thousands of tenant farmers—indeed most of them—with some financial assistance and with some advice and training, can be made self-supporting on land which can eventually be turned over to them. The nation would be wise to offer them that chance instead of permitting them to go along as they do now, year after year, with neither future security as tenants nor hope of ownership of their homes nor expectation of bettering the lot of their children.

Another national problem is the intelligent development of our social security system, the broadening of the services it renders, and the practical improvement in its operation. In many nations where such laws are in effect, success in meeting the expectations of the community has come through frequent amendments of the original statute.

Long Range Policy
And, of course, the most far-reaching and the most inclusive problem of all is that of unemployment and the lack of economic balance of which unemployment is at once the result and the symptom. The adequate question of adequate relief for the needy unemployed who are capable of performing useful work, I shall discuss with the congress during the coming months. The broader task of preventing unemployment is a matter of long-range evolutionary policy. To that we must continue to give our best thought and effort. We cannot assume that immediate industrial and commercial activity which mitigates present pressures justifies the national government at this time in placing the unemployment problem in a filing cabinet of finished business.

Fluctuations in employment are tied to all other wasteful fluctuations in our mechanism of production and distribution. One of these wastes is speculation. In securities or commodities, the larger the volume of speculation, the wider become the upward and downward swings and the more certain the result that in the long run there will be more losses than gains in the underlying wealth of the community.

Loss To Society
And, as is now well known to all of us, the same net loss to society comes from reckless overproduction and monopolistic underproduction of natural and manufactured commodities.

Overproduction and underproduction and speculation are three evil sisters who distort the troubles of unsound inflation and disastrous deflation. It is to the interest of the nation to have government help private enterprise to gain sound general price levels and to protect those levels from wide fluctuations. We know now that if early in 1931 government had taken the steps which were taken two and three years later, the depression would never have reached the depths of the beginning of 1933.

Two-Fold Policy
Sober second thought confirms most of us in the belief that the broad objectives of the National Recovery Act were sound. We know now that its difficulties arose from the fact that it tried to do too much. For example, it was high time for democracy to assert itself.

New National Needs
Because all of us believe that our democratic form of government can cope adequately with modern problems as they arise, it is patriotic as well as logical for us to prove that we can meet new national needs with new laws consistent with an historic constitutional framework clearly intended to resolve liberal and not narrow interpretation.

Problems Remain
The statute of N.R.A. has been outlawed. The problems have not. They are still with us.
That decent conditions and adequate pay for labor, and just return for agriculture, can be secured through parallel and simultaneous action by 48 states is a proven impossibility. It is equally impossible to obtain curbs on monopoly, unfair trade practices and speculation by state action alone. There are those who, sincerely or insincerely, still cling to state action as a theoretical hope. But experience with actualities makes it clear that federal laws supplementing state laws are needed to help solve the problems which result from modern invention applied in an industrialized nation which conducts its business with scant regard to state lines.

Greater Satisfaction
It is not enough that the wheels turn. They must carry us in the direction of a greater satisfaction is not an alteration of our fundamental law, but an increasingly enlightened view with reference to its interpretation; but rightly considered, it can be used as an instrument of progress, and not as a device for prevention of action.

Convention Debates
It is worth our while to read and re-read the preamble of the constitution, and Article I thereof which confers the legislative powers upon the congress of the United States. It is also worth our while to read again the debates in the constitutional convention of 1787.

Obtain the very definite thought that the members of that convention would raise problems for the proposed new federal government, which they themselves could not even surmise; and that it was their definite intent and expectation that a liberal interpretation in the years to come would give the congress the same relative powers over new national problems as they themselves gave to the congress over the national problems of their day.

Purpose Explained
In presenting to the convention the first basic draft of the constitution, Edmund Randolph explained that it was the purpose "to insert essential principles only, lest the operation of government should be clogged by these provisions, permanent and unalterable which ought to be accommodated to times and events."

With a better understanding of our purposes, and a more intelligent recognition of our needs as a nation, it is not to be assumed that there will be prolonged failure to bring legislative and judicial action into closer harmony. Means must be found to adapt our legal forms and our judicial interpretation to the actual progress of the largest progressive democracy in the modern world.

That thought leads to a consideration of world problems. To go no further back than the beginning of this century, men and women everywhere were seeking conditions of life very different from those which were customary before modern invention and modern industry and modern communications had come into being. The World War, for all of its tragedy, encouraged these demands, and stimulated action to fulfill these new desires.

Many national governments seemed unable adequately to respond; and, often with the provident assent of the masses of the people themselves, new forms of government were set up with oligarchy taking the place of democracy. In oligarchies, militarism has leapt forward, while in those nations which have retained democracy, militarism has waned.

Tells of Visit
I have recently visited three of our sister republics in South America. The very cordial receptions with which I was greeted were in tribute to democracy. To me, the outstanding observation of that visit was that the masses of the peoples of all the Americas are convinced that the democratic form of government can be made to succeed and do not wish to substitute for it any other form of government. They believe that democracies are best able to cope with the changing problems of modern civilization within themselves, and that democracies are best able to maintain peace among themselves.

The Inter-American conference, operating on these fundamental principles of democracy, did much to assure peace in this hemisphere. Existing peace machinery was improved. New instruments to maintain peace and eliminate causes of war were adopted. Wider protection of the interests of the American republics in the event of war outside the western hemisphere was provided. Respect for, and observance of, international treaties and international law were strengthened. Principles of liberal trade policies, as effective aids to the maintenance of peace were reaffirmed. The intellectual and cultural relationships among American republics were broadened as a part of the general peace program.

Wholesome Effect
In a world unanxiously thinking in terms of war, the representatives of twenty-one nations sat around a table, in an atmosphere of complete confidence and understanding, sincerely discussing measures for maintaining peace. Here was a great and permanent achievement directly affecting the lives and security of the two hundred and fifty million human beings who dwell in this western hemisphere. Here was an example which must have a wholesome effect upon the rest of the world.

In a very real sense, the conference in Buenos Aires sent forth a message on behalf of all the democracies of the world to those nations which live otherwise. Because such other governments are perhaps more spectacular, it was high time for democracy to assert itself.

Asked To Do Part
The judicial branch also is asked by the people to do its part in making democracy successful. We do not ask the courts to call non-

LAST OF BOY SCOUTS BACK FROM ROKILI

Although the memory of the big adventure had not faded, the last chapter in the story of Orange County Boy Scouts being marooned in their San Bernardino mountain camp a week ago was written late last night with the return to Santa Ana of Scout leaders and two boys who had been frost-bitten and unable to come back with 121 others early Monday.

The two children victims, Richard Starbuck, of Fullerton, and Royce Kaufman, of Newport Beach, today were in their respective homes, and reportedly in good condition.

They were accompanied back to the city by Harrison White, Orange County Scout executive, R. H. Gilman, Seal Beach scoutmaster, Clyde Files and Bud Foster, local Eagle Scouts.

The successful trip climaxed the second attempt to reach Ro-Ki-Li camp, the executives of the organization attempting to reach the camp Monday.

The Scout leaders brought back the news today that the huge snowplows had been successful in clearing the road.

RECREATIONAL WORKERS NAMED

ORANGE, Jan. 6.—Playground workers selected for Orange for a WPA recreational project are as follows: Robert Allen, who will be in charge of a playground at the Center street school; Carroll Merrick, Killefer school; Jack Newton, Maple street school; Steven Reyes, Cypress street school; Gilbert Kaun, West Orange school; C. R. Allen city park tennis courts; Matt Lujan, Harold Eberle, Mrs. Lora Glover and Mrs. Bessie Tinkler, El Modena schools.

ORANGE MASON IS HONORED AT MEET

ORANGE, Jan. 6.—A 50-year Masonic gold button was presented to J. L. Knesel, 223 North Harwood street, at a meeting of the Orange lodge No. 423, held at the Masonic hall last night. The gold button was from the mother lodge country where gold was first discovered in California and the presentation was made by the worthy master of the lodge, Robert C. Bunch.

At a round table discussion the Rev. Arthur T. Hobson gave a talk on "Fifty Years a Mason," during the course of which he traced Mr. Knesel's work as a Mason during the past half century.

MELVIN HODSON IS HONORED AT PARTY

EL MODENA, Jan. 6.—Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Hodson entertained Sunday afternoon of the 14th birthday anniversary of their grandson, Melvin Hodson son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hodson of Orange. A beautiful white birthday cake decorated with yellow roses and holding 14 yellow candles was the centerpiece for the table where a chicken dinner was served.

Places were marked for Melvin, his parents, maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Pritchard of Orange, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hodson of San Juan Capistrano, Roy Hodson of the home and the hosts. Afternoon visitors in the home were Mrs. Hodson's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Pritchard of Stanton.

CITY TRUCK DAMAGED
ORANGE, Jan. 6.—A city truck driven by E. J. McAdoo of the city water department, and an automobile driven by J. O. Ward, 240 N. Cleveland street, collided yesterday morning with a small amount of damage to each vehicle resulting. The accident occurred on North Cleveland street near the Ward home.

existing powers into being, but we have a right to expect that conceded powers or those legitimately implied shall be made effective instruments for the common good.

The process of our democracy must not be impeded by the denial of essential powers of free government.

Your task and mine is not ending with the end of the depression. The people of the United States have made it clear that they expect us to continue our active efforts in behalf of their peaceful advancement.

In that spirit of endeavor and service I greet the seventy-fifth congress at the beginning of this auspicious new year.

CITY COUNCIL OF FULLERTON TO BUY SITE

The Fullerton city council, with a vote of three to two, last night passed resolutions authorizing the city attorney to purchase the properties on the north side of West Commonwealth avenue, east of Highland avenue and including eight city lots, as a site for the erecting of a city hall.

These three councilmen, H. H. Kohlenberger, T. K. Gowen and Walter Muckenthaler, voted for spending this money, about $28,500, in spite of the information given them by Raymond Thompson, and through letters written by him, that a referendum petition is being circulated asking for an election on this site and his verbal information that it might be considered a willful waste of money and react against the three councilmen if they continued. Mayor Harry G. Maxwell urged a delay on this purchase, and an election for the site selection, also. With George Lillie, the mayor voted against the proposal.

The location of a city hall has been hanging under litigation or election proceedings for some time. The three councilmen who are attempting to locate it on Commonwealth avenue last night expressed themselves as desiring to do so in order to get the question settled, and to avoid losing the federal grant of $34,000 for erection of the building. All the properties are in escrow, and ready

For the newest in sport togs... pick a dark suit but be sure your accessories e. i. your mittens, cap, socks and scarf are just one grand riot of color... the color may be repeated at the top of your turtle neck or inside sweater. If you have the jacket to your suit cozy lined with lamb's wool, you won't mind the worst of blizzards.

TROPICAL COLOURS in print dresses and hats... you can't avoid them this spring. If you've been reading your VOGUE and HARPER'S you know that the brighter the better is the print picture for spring. While in the tropics this fall we were told their cheerful colors would be carried over to the states very soon. Now it is a fact... no longer a promise.

No matter whether you call it the short box topper after Schiaparelli or just the stroler... it's still very important. It's essentially British with its padded shoulders and box-cut; or it can be Paris le mode with immense verve and vivacity in its swing back. You'll wear it to the races, the club, and spectator wear.

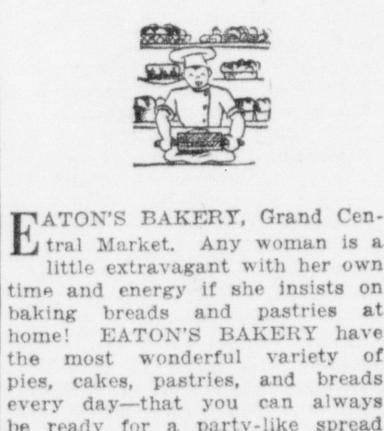

DR. WM. N. LECK, 209 W. Fourth. (A RICE'S FOOT COMFORT SHOP). Is there something wrong with your feet? Why suffer uselessly when you can have Dr. Wm. N. LECK correct any trouble that you might have? "A stitch in time"... you know. Dr. Leck is a surgical chiropodist, trained in the arch-lock method of foot correction. He treats all skin afflictions of the foot.

SCOUILLERS, 312 N. Sycamore. Here you are! Whoops! You'll never be able to hold back now. SCOUILLERS is offering their woolen dresses at a 20 per cent discount! We saw a navy with a colored blouse, and one in feather cloth with a rope belt. And the handsome drowsy dress in a wool sheer, made stunning by a cape and scarf with a green suede trim.

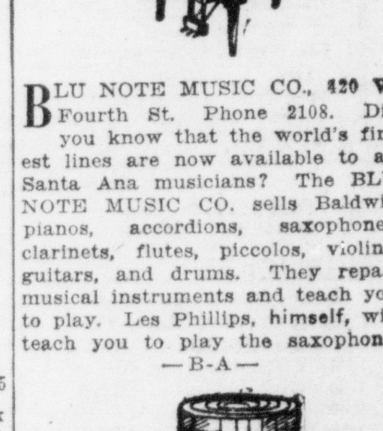

NEAL SPORTING GOODS STORE, 209 E. Fourth. SNOW TOGS... one of the essentials this year. With six feet of snow already in the mountains, it looks like a snowy white winter. It's fun to go up in it if you're fitted out right. You'll find the coziest of woolen things at NEAL SPORTING GOODS STORE... Buy real snow cloth in your pants. You can't be cold when you can't get wet!

ALLIE MAE "One-of-a-Kind" Arcade Bldg., 515 N. Main. With but a very few dresses left, yet anxious to dispose of these ALLIE MAE is clearing her stock to get all ready for spring things. There is a satin left and that is destined to be "tops" in the spring. If you're lucky enough to find something at ALLIE MAE'S you'll be "one of the favored few".

ARCADIE FUR SHOP, Arcade Bldg., 515 N. Main, Room 24. There is a special sale being held at the ARCADIE FUR SHOP where you will find coats, jackets, capes, and chokers at a reasonable price. Of course now is the time to buy your much-coveted fur coat or anything else that you might want in the fur line. Nothing so handsome, is there?

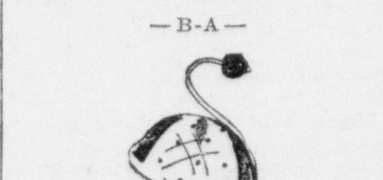

THE HOME CAFE, 304 N. Broadway. Take the family out to dinner on Saturday evening. THE HOME CAFE specializes in "meals served family style". And the price is only 60c. Why not give yourself a treat, and the family too, by taking them to this popular cafe? It will be money in your pocket by eating there.

EATON'S BAKERY, Grand Central Market. Any woman is a little extravagant with her own time and energy if she insists on baking breads and pastries at home! EATON'S BAKERY have the most wonderful variety of pies, cakes, pastries, and breads every day—that you can always be ready for a party-like spread—even for the family.

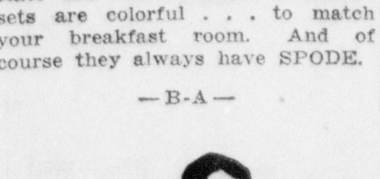

RONSHOLDTS, Santora Bldg., 205 N. Broadway. Don't you think RONSHOLDTS have the best looking things? That's why you hear of more and more people going there. Ronsholdts is offering a 20 per cent discount on ladies' suits, dresses, skirts, blouses at his downstairs sport store. House dresses, formerly 1.95 are now 1.59. You'll find hostess gowns. They're stunning! And sweaters. Don't forget the Junior Department in sizes 7 to 16 for all girls' clothes. You'll thrill with the big selection.

BLU NOTE MUSIC CO., 420 W. Fourth St., Phone 2108. Did you know that the world's finest lines are now available to all Santa Ana musicians? The BLU NOTE MUSIC CO. sells Baldwin pianos, accordions, saxophones, clarinets, flutes, piccolos, violins, guitars, and drums. They repair musical instruments and teach you to play. Les Phillips, himself, will teach you to play the saxophone.

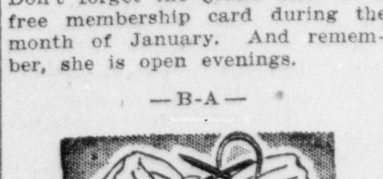

HOMARTS, Santora Bldg., 211 N. Broadway. BREAKFAST SETS starting at $4.95 for a 32-piece set are being featured by HOMARTS. If you have your own home, if you take pride in entertaining smartly, and if you are critical of things you'll appreciate this offer. These breakfast sets are colorful... to match your breakfast room. And of course they always have SPODE.

PACIFIC POTTERY YARD, Main St. at 20th. Away over 200 sets of that colorful pottery were sold at Christmas time. But some of you did not receive complete sets. It is to you we talk today. At the PACIFIC POTTERY YARD it's fill-in week. Add to your set by buying platters, gravy and salad bowls, sugars and creamers, salt and peppers. Nothing so colorful and brightening as pottery, is there?

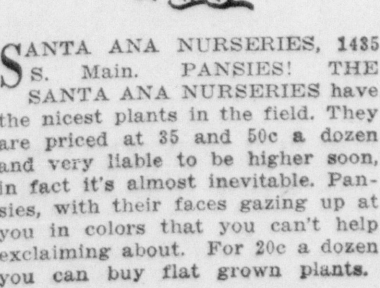

LOCKWOOD'S GIFT SHOP, Arcade Bldg., 515 N. Main. Helen Tietjen has the loveliest assortment of new copperware for your own home or bridge prizes. And a beautiful line of post cards. Don't forget the grand offer of a free membership card during the month of January. And remember, she is open evenings.

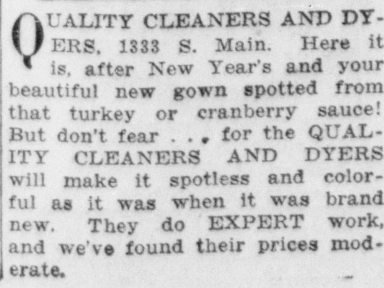

HAMMOND BROS., INC., 1214 N. Main St., phone 2617. Custom-inlaid work, rubber floors, linoleum floors, and rubber drainboards. Some of it sounds NEW, doesn't it? It is. Life is too short and too sweet to put up with the weariness of a kitchen or any other room everlastingly down at the heels, especially when you can, without strain on the pocketbook, go to HAMMOND BROS., CORP., on South Main St. Naturally you want to be in style, and you want to be thrifty. HAMMOND BROS. will be glad to offer suggestions.

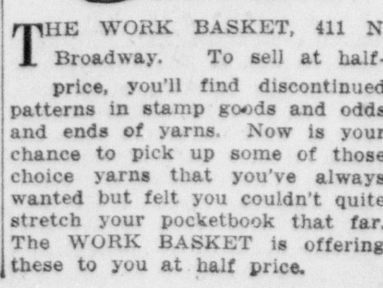

QUALITY CLEANERS AND DYERS, 1333 S. Main. Here it is, after New Year's and your beautiful new gown spotted from that turkey or cranberry sauce! But don't fear it is for the QUALITY CLEANERS AND DYERS will make it spotless and colorful as it was when it was brand new. They do EXPERT work, and we've found their prices moderate.

THE WORK BASKET, 411 N. Broadway. To sell at half price, you'll find discontinued patterns in stamp goods and odds and ends of yarns. Now is your chance to pick up some of those choice yarns that you've always wanted but felt you couldn't quite stretch your pocketbook that far. THE WORK BASKET is offering these to you at half price.

TRANSITION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6—The President's annual message is said to have been prepared with some difficulty this year. Underneath it is a change in the controlling influence of economic conditions. The New Deal is at the climax of a transition period.

What has been done so far can accurately be charted by a line ascending like one side of a mountain. The big idea has been to turn on the gas, and climb. The fuel used was an unbalanced budget, big treasury borrowings, large spending, big public works, earnings and wealth distribution by taxation, low interest rates, etc.

Future government economic policies can be charted by a descending line representing the other side of the mountain.

The budget must be balanced as soon as possible. Treasury borrowings must decline as private borrowings increase. Public spending must be eased down as private spending builds up. The new trend must be toward higher interest rates, less artificial money distribution.

The danger of a steel-mine strike around April 1 is obvious, but many authorities doubt that it will come to pass.

A good guess would be that the coal agreement will be continued as it stands for a short period after expiration date, thereby delaying a showdown.

PLANNING

The auto strike seems to be just the first step in a private series planned by Mr. John L. Lewis to capture national attention for his steel organization program. Around headquarters, his confidants sometimes call it a "Campaign for the Headlines."

The second step will probably be a national conference under the auspices of the steel workers' organizing committee in a few weeks. The third will be the meeting of Mr. Lewis and the coal operators in New York February 17. It would not be surprising if the S. W. O. C. seeks a conference with the steel operators to be held simultaneously with the coal conference.

Thus, all three steps will eventually lead up into the same objective.

It seems to be true that Lewis did not want to let the auto strike start so soon, but the auto union leaders insisted because delay would injure their position. The peak of the production season now is on. They argued, furthermore, that, if they can get a good settlement, it may help Lewis in steel.

Watching Bombardment of Madrid From Safe Vantage Point

Plumes of smoke from bombs bursting in the distance write against the cloudless sky above Madrid the ruthless destruction of the Spanish capital by rebel planes and artillery. Fascist officers in the foreground watch from a vantage point far behind the zone of destruction the marksmanship of their pilots and gunners.

sents the ideas of possibly 100 men and the phraseology of perhaps twenty. The method used in its preparation has been perfected by Mr. Roosevelt since the New Deal got into so many ramifications that it was impossible for any one man to keep up with them all.

Weeks ago, he began receiving suggestions prepared by important government bureaus as to their legislative needs. He made notations on these. Also, he scribbled from time to time, and piled the whole up in one drawer.

Two days ago (Mr. Roosevelt always waits until the last possible moment to draft the final form of his speeches), he took out these notations and dictated the draft of the speech. Then he let government officials look over the sections relating to their subject and accepted their suggestions for improvements or deletions.

The final draft came out late, as usual.

PACIFICATION

If any cabinet resignations have arrived at the White House, they must have been dropped down the chimney. The guard at the door has seen none. In fact, that drawn look appears to have disappeared from the faces of nearly all the cabinet members. At long last, definite word has passed down the inside line that the matter has all been straightened out, that Mr. Roosevelt will not request resignations, that there will be "very few, if any" changes in the cabinet.

The truth seems to be that Mr. Roosevelt likes to be affable and easy-going. The law does not require the cabinet members to resign, and, while decency might, the point may not mean as much as they suppose. If they will look at their commissions, signed by the president, and find that, after the initial compliments of their integrity, prudence, etc., it says that they are to "serve at the pleasure of the president, for the time being."

General HUGH S. JOHNSON

HOBBAW, S. C.—If Japan wants to talk about a composition in the Pacific—we ought to listen without too much squeamishness about bilateral or multilateral conversations. Of course, we have no more reason to rely on such promises than we ever had. Machiavelli seems to reign in modern diplomacy.

All we usually get out of international conferences is a gyping. The trouble with us is that, while we seem to believe that little woodpeckers in front of clear stores need watching, we still trust that the good faith of great nations is reliable. We are like a prize scholar from a rural Sunday school suddenly and innocently projected into a wharf rats' reunion and taking at face value the promises of people long ago disillusioned to the idea that promises mean anything.

The thought that Japan would certainly, and in all circumstances, respect some convention neutralizing the Philippines is somewhat like the idea that a cat would respect a convention to neutralize mice. But we have got to get our fingers out of that Asiatic wringer and Japan is just now in a tight spot.

Whether alone or with other countries if we could get her unequivocally to guarantee the independence of the Philippine Islands, not to fortify any islands east of the Carolines and to restrict the cruising radius of her navy and aircraft carriers to a zone extending halfway across the Pacific—why "Peace hath her victories no less renowned than war" and that would be one of them.

It may not be as safe as Gibraltfar but it's the best there is. It is as much as we could reasonably be expected to do for the little brown brother in Manila and more than he has any right to ask. It would be a graceful exit from a position of great peril and it would be better than the present arrangement, for this reason: if we do undertake the duty and the responsibility of alone underwriting the independence of the Philippines, we can't possibly make it good. All we can do is to engage in an impossible and interminable war for the destruction of Japanese commerce—after having lost the Philippines with no chance of regaining them.

This writer once had something to do with a survey of possible Japanese landing places in Luzon, both on the Pacific and China Sea sides. It is more than conjecture to say that, with the possible retention of Corregidor, there is no faint chance for anything but military defeat and humiliation in any attempt by us to defend the Philippine Islands—and as for recapturing them, once they are taken—as was recently suggested by a distinguished columnist—that is wholly impossible.

If we could come out of a Japanese conference bearing that we should have absolute freedom to fortify in our own discretion, the Pacific line from Unalaska through Honolulu to the Canal, and to police that line with air and naval craft as we see fit and that Japan would join with us and, say, Britain and Russia to guarantee for say forty years, the neutrality of the Philippines and also agree to no naval or military bases west of the Carolines, one of the greatest steps for us away from war would have been taken. It would have localized the offensive power of both great nations to their own proper spheres of defense and made it very difficult for either to act aggressively against the other.

Maybe Mexico ought to be in that discussion because of the haunting specter of some secret Japanese base at places like Magdalena Bay. This is nonsense, although it is true that Chihuahua and Sonora were once infiltrated with Japanese reserve officers. I have seen them with my own eyes and talked with them at length. But that isn't important. They have no real hold on Mexicans. The great popular leader, Villa, hung as many of them as he did of Chinamen—and hanging Chinamen used to be his favorite outdoor diversion.

CHARTING THE STARS

★ TED HUSING

Was born in Deming, N. M., Nov. 27, 1901. Named Edward Britt Husing. Father's favorite prizefighter, Johnny Britt. Tagged with sobriquet of "Ted" by childhood sweetheart. Moved to Clovisville, N. Y., and later to New York City. Aired as mascot for five Columbia university athletic teams. Educated in New York City. Attended Stuyvesant High, Pace Institute and Columbia Extension. Participated in all major sports. Member all-state football and soccer teams. Joined S. A. T. C. in an attempt to get overseas, but Armistice intervened. First employed as payroll clerk with New York corporation at $22.50 a week. Left home to travel on own and seek adventure. Hitchhiked all over the United States. Supported self working as actor, soldier, policeman and aviator. Returned to New York. A period of idleness followed a brief career in Wall street. Pilot with Aero-Marine Airways, but was transferred to Miami after crashup. Lonesome for bright lights, returned as "flying cop" with New York police department. An outside loop proved his "Jonah" and once again he was out of a job. Next drawn into the Florida land boom. On its collapse, back to New York. Won announcing audition over 619 applicants, because, as he says, "I could talk longer and louder than any of the other boys." Joined staff of the newly-organized CBS on Christmas day, 1927. Has participated in almost every conceivable type of broadcast. Vital statistics: Six feet tall, weighs 175 pounds, has brown hair and eyes. AIR TIME: Any major sports event of CBS.

Allen Features Singer Who Would Be Carpenter

"The world will little note, nor long remember what we say here."

Hollywood, Jan. 6—

KFWB STILL CONTINUES TO

show around. Henceforth, in addition to his Sunday afternoon sint for the network, he'll ask the question, "Do You Want To Be An Actor?" on Wednesdays.

(KFWB, 8)

Of the two efforts, the KFWB edition seems to be the best. A larger audience adds tempo, and the actors seem to be more at ease in realizing that only thousands instead of millions are listening.

FRED ALLEN'S LINEUP IS

promising. Among those seeking a radio career, they will be daughter of one of his boyhood friends. Her name is Ethel Shephard. Another, whose name is

James Norton, an established

vaudeville singer, hopes to be able to get a job as a carpenter as a result of his performance. (KFI, 9)

Fred's weekly letter just arrived.

The nasal-toned Yankee writes:

"Dear Homer:

"In the old days birds flew south for the winter. This morning I overheard a robin making reservations on the Miami plane. I

Did you hear about the old lady who fed all of her stale bread to the birds? A few of them flew into her kitchen one day and they got nothing. She thought they had too much crust. . . Business certainly must be improving. Wall street brokers jumping out of windows now carry parachutes. I met an actor last week who claims he's got so much pulling power he can lift his own options. . . Then there was the temperamental dancer who didn't need to hire a partner. He was always beside himself. . . Portland says: 'I'd buy a new coat this winter if I wasn't afraid Mr. Allen would say 'What's that fur?'"

"Cordially,

"FRED ALLEN."

WEATHER ODDS BACK SUN FOR INAUGURAL DAY

WASHINGTON, (UP)—Weather

bureau officials dug through musty records today and found statistics which gave some consolation to worried officials in charge of inauguration ceremonies for President Roosevelt on Jan. 20.

Inaugural officials have feared that the elements may not smile on the mid-winter inauguration

date set by the Norris "lame duck" amendment.

Weather bureau statistics showed,

however, that if the weather on Jan. 20 lives up to that on the same date in previous inaugural years, it scarcely can be worse than on March 4, the date on which other Presidents have been inaugurated.

Study on climatic conditions on inaugural days for the past 20 years showed that if the ceremonies had been held on Jan. 20

instead of March 4, the elements would have been benign on all except one occasion.

Nearly an inch and a quarter of rain fell on March 4, 1917, when

Woodrow Wilson took the oath of office for his second term. On Jan.

CABARETS VEX NEW ORLEANS FOR 128 YEARS

BY RICHARD G. HARRIS
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW ORLEANS, (UP)—This city didn't invent the night club, but New Orleans has had cabarets since the earliest days of its history.

They sprang up around 1718 and they've flourished all those 218 years, a perpetual official headache. Authorities worried plenty back in the Colonial days. They taxed and they regulated and they told police it was their job just as they do today.

In those early days, New Orleans cabarets, as they say in Hollywood, "had everything." The ones with floor shows were har-places for family gatherings. The cabaret had come direct to New Orleans from Paris. The very name came from the old French word "cavere," meaning an empty space.

Tax Led to Smuggling
The city fathers taxed the cabarets for alcoholic liquors sold. Naturally, the profession of liquor smuggling developed. Bienville, the founder of New Orleans, was the first official to whom the cabaret problem became a headache.

He wrestled with liquor smuggling for years. When he quit his job and went back to France, he bequeathed his battle to his successors. They're wrestling with it yet.

Old documents in the Cabaret where archives of the city are kept, show that one Monsieur Dupont, cabaret keeper, was arrested in 1726, just eight years after the city was founded. He was charged with violation of the law against selling alcoholic liquor on Sunday during Divine service.

Licenses Sold at Auction
By 1746, when New Orleans was a 28-year-old city, with a population of 800 whites, and 200 Negroes, the cabaret problem had become so acute that authorities decided to limit them to six. They ordered that the licenses be put up for sale at auction.

Bidding was so spirited that the city council gained 4,605 livres by the auction. The French livre started as equal to the English pound, about $5. The cabaret problem was believed solved.

But it wasn't. Seventeen years later, Nicolas Lafreniere, procureur-general for the king, gave this description to some of recency cabarets:

"To accelerate their earnings, and to meet the expenses they incur, they adulterate the liquors they illegally sell, and expose the slaves to violent maladies. While furnishing them with drink, they incite them to pilfer and steal from the houses of their masters. They can find: the handkerchiefs, the towels, the empty bottles, etc., all have a price and disappear in the traffic of these clandestine taverns and cabarets. What hidden, pernicious disorders have resulted!"

Flourished Under Spain
This, Cabildo documents show, was in the twilight of the French regime in Louisiana. Doubtless they passed the cabaret problem on to Spain. By 1793, under Spanish rule, the cabarets that paid taxes in New Orleans had leaped in number from the original lawful six to 54.

As New Orleans continued to grow, so did the number of cabarets. So did the taxes levied on them.

As 1837 starts, New Orleans has approximately 2,000 places of business that under French and Spanish colonial construction would be classified as "cabarets or taverns." They are houses where liquor is sold retail, some with music, song, dancing and other amusements.

Most of them are called plain saloons in this day.

1936 NEWS YEAR ECLIPSES ANY SINCE WORLD WAR AND UNITED PRESS RANKS BIGGEST STORIES

NEW YORK (UP)—For transcendent news 1936 overshadowed any year since the World War.

The ten biggest news stories of the year, as selected by the United Press from a world viewpoint, originated in the United States, Canada, England, Germany, Spain, Ethiopia and Japan.

In the order of their news interest, they were:

- 1—Abdication of King Edward, climaxing the constitutional crisis over the Edward-Simpson love affair.
- 2—Roosevelt landslide, climaxing the presidential campaign.
- 3—Spanish civil war.
- 4—Death of King George V.
- 5—Execution of Bruno Richard Hauptmann.
- 6—Fall of Addis Ababa, climaxing Italy's conquest of Ethiopia.
- 7—Germany's reoccupation of the Rhineland.
- 8—Japanese army revolt.
- 9—Astor-Thorne litigation.
- 10—Olympic Games, especially Jesse Owen's victories and the Eleanor Holm-Jarrett controversy.

Nominations for alternates include: Moose River gold mine rescue. Stabilization of currencies by gold bloc nations. Schmeling's knockout of Joe Louis. U. S. business recovery. President Roosevelt's peace mission to Buenos Aires. Supreme Court invalidation of the AAA. Eastern U. S. floods.

CLEVELAND ESCORT BUREAUS BOAST ALL-COLLEGE STAFFS

CLEVELAND (UP)—All that lonely women need in this city of a million is to be assured companionship during the holiday season is a few dollars—two escort bureaus will do the rest.

Both services will furnish young, college-educated escorts for $5 each per evening. The young men, attired in tuxedo, full dress, or business suit as the occasion may require, are varied in talent. They are sworn to guard the confidences of their clients. And the agencies do not want them to be known as gigolos.

One of the bureaus employs 10 college graduates, ranging in age from 21 to 35. The other draws its escorts from Western Reserve University students—athletes, "pre-meds," lawyers who can dance, play bridge and who are good conversationalists.

The bureau that employs college graduates exclusively is managed by a 21-year-old Cleveland, who has just returned from a three-month trip to the Baltic Sea. He worked his way as a sea-man aboard a freighter.

This young executive prides himself on the linguistic abilities of his staff. One of his men speaks Spanish, several speak French, one uses the best Oxford accent and another has a southern drawl.

The other bureau is headed by a 28-year-old man who has offices in a large downtown building. He charges $2.50 extra if his escort furnishes a motor car, whereas the rival agency provides the car, charging only for gaso-

On the campus Dr. Guilford is known as "Pennsylvania's Grand Old Man," because he has lived more than half the life of the university itself.

His distinction of being the oldest graduate was inherited upon the death in 1926 of Dr. Joshua R. Hayes, President Lincoln's personal physician.

OLD CEMETERY DISCOVERED
NEWBURGH, N. Y. (UP)—A cemetery dating back to Revolutionary days is believed to have been unearthed here. Workmen who discovered bones called Coroner Andrew Caley.

TWINS NEARING 95TH BIRTHDAY

PLAINVIEW, Tex. (UP)—J. M. Shafer of Plainview and Mrs. Lydia Whitehead of Los Angeles, believed to be the nation's oldest living twins, are approaching their 95th milestone.

Shafer, now confined to a wheel chair by a hip injury, has pioneered newspaper publication in many cities. The twins were born in Mahoning county, O. As a boy Shafer worked on a Rock Island, Ill., newspaper office, then moved to Denver, where he helped print the first issue of the Denver Post.

He remained in Denver through its gold rush period, then moved to Texas. He established the Stephenville (Tex.) Elixir and was married in that city. He left that city to begin the Cisco (Tex.) Telegram.

In 1890, Mr. and Mrs. Shafer moved to a ranch near Plainview, but after a few months he brought the Plainview Herald, a weekly, and operated it until 1911. The paper was sold, then consolidated into a daily. Before 1900, however, the newspaper plant burned. Shafer bought brick in Amarillo, 100 miles away, and brought it to Plainville to build the first brick building in the town.

Mrs. Shafer died 19 years ago. Shafer's twin sister married and moved to Plainview after the death of her husband. After a short stay, however, she moved to Los Angeles. The two last met in 1928, when Shafer visited his sister. Until injuring his hip Shafer maintained an active interest in civic affairs. Mrs. Whitehead baked the cake for her 93rd birthday celebration a year ago.

MOSQUITO-LESS LAKE FOUND

WATROUS, Sask. (UP)—A mosquito-less lake has been found in the provincial park near here. The lake contains mineral salts and the mosquitoes avoid it.

General business activity in California during November extended the gains made in recent months, and reached the highest plane since October, 1930, according to a report received monthly by the First National Bank in Santa Ana.

This bank's index of California business, graphed above, rose from 100.3 in October to 103.2 in November; a year ago in November it stood at 93.7 (100 equals 1923-25 average). Allowing for seasonal trends, three factors of the index—bank deposits, freight carloadings, and industrial production factor, creased, while the fourth factor, department-store sales, held even. Much of the normal flow of water-borne commerce has been impeded by the maritime labor troubles, now in their second month.

Light general rainfall over northern California in mid-December, and moderate snowfall in the High Sierra helped to relieve one of the region's longest periods of autumn drought, the weather during November having been almost the driest on record for that month.

Grass for pasturage is extremely scant; and plowing, planting, and the growth of crops already sowed are waiting for more rain. In the southern part of the state, however, precipitation is up to normal or better.

Harvesting of such late crops as cotton, rice, sugar-beets, and beans was favored by the dry weather of last month. Citrus fruit is ready of good color and high juice content. A sizeable crop of avocados is nearly ready for market, and a large lettuce crop is reported making satisfactory growth. Returns on most crops are running 10 to 15 per cent higher than those of last year.

Several important measures of business turnover show a continuing upward trend. The November increase over last year's figure being 65 percent. Automobile sales continue at levels approaching those of 1929. January-November sales this year (223,994 passenger cars, 32,412 commercial cars) being 27 per cent above those of a year earlier. Tourists continue to visit the state in greater volume than in 1929; the importance of the tourist "industry" is illustrated by the estimate (by Automobiles Inc.) that visitors by automobiles alone spent $44,000,000 in the northern part of the state during January-November.

Its growth is shown by comparison with the estimate from the same source for 1922, when tourist expenditures totaled $6,500,000 for the year.

Industrial employment in California, except in the maritime field, continues by a sizeable margin to exceed last year's levels. In November the number employed was 7.6 per cent higher than that in November 1935; workers' average weekly earnings were 3.2 per cent larger; and total payrolls were 17.5 per cent larger.

THE HAGUE GAY, PRINCE TO WED JULIANA TODAY

BY H. C. BAURMAN
United Press Staff Correspondent

THE HAGUE, Holland, Jan. 6.—(UP)—A radiantly happy bride will ride through the streets of picturesque The Hague tomorrow. Dressed in white velvet, her auburn hair crowned by a rich diamond, large crowns will hail their beloved Juliana of the Netherlands and heir to the throne.

Next to Princess Juliana will sit Prince Bernhard, who will be her husband when the ceremony is over.

A little over a year ago they met at Garmisch-Partenkirchen, the fashionable winter resort in Southern Germany, during the Olympic winter games of 1935. They liked each other, these two royal children and soon loved each other.

Ride in Golden Coach
Tomorrow they drive to the church, cheered by hundreds of thousands of excited people in the streets of The Hague. They will be seated in a golden coach, drawn by eight horses, with lackeys walking by the side of the horses, preceding them and following them will be squadrons of Holland's cavalry, clad in field gray uniforms, riding close together, with their long, drawn swords glimmering in the daylight, their busbies well down on their heads just showing the glint of their eyes.

An impressive victorian procession will follow. In it will be the beautiful coach carrying Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands, the so-called crystal coach. Nearly 40 years ago the Queen rode to the church in The Hague, to be crowned Queen of the Netherlands—then being seated in the golden coach, the nation had presented her.

The great crowds will cheer when Queen Wilhelmina passes. They will cheer among them the royal guests, among them the Duke of Kent, as representative of the English court. Japanese Princes also will be present, having come to do homage to their Crown Princess. They will wear picturesque Japanese dresses, these Sultans from the Netherlands Indies, although a few of them will wear their uniforms as officers in the Netherlands Indies Army.

The Hague Bedecked
The Hague today was one mass of flags, of green garlands, of high, decorated masts. Palaces, public buildings, many private houses were gaily bedecked with green and banners, with flags and shields bear the portraits of the bride couple. For the last fortnight all these houses, as well as public squares and church towers, all have been illuminated brightly at night making The Hague into a city of fairyland, with its picturesque canals and beautiful streets lined with trees.

Queen Wilhelmina originally had insisted that tomorrow's wedding should be a family affair. If the nation of Holland may be looked upon as one big family, then indeed the wedding will be "a family affair."

Much has been changed since the Queen first courted about the forthcoming marriage. Queen Wilhelmina, one of the most popular of modern rulers, keeps strict orders for her court. During the last few years, these rules have not been slack-ened, but the court has been sad. In 1934 the Queen's mother, beloved Queen Emma, died, and later in the same year the Queen's husband, Prince Henry of the Netherlands, died.

Two lonely women remained behind in the Palace at The Hague, Queen Wilhelmina and Princess Juliana. Then came their Prince Charming, Prince Bernhard zur Lippe Biesterfeld, a happy, pleasant young man.

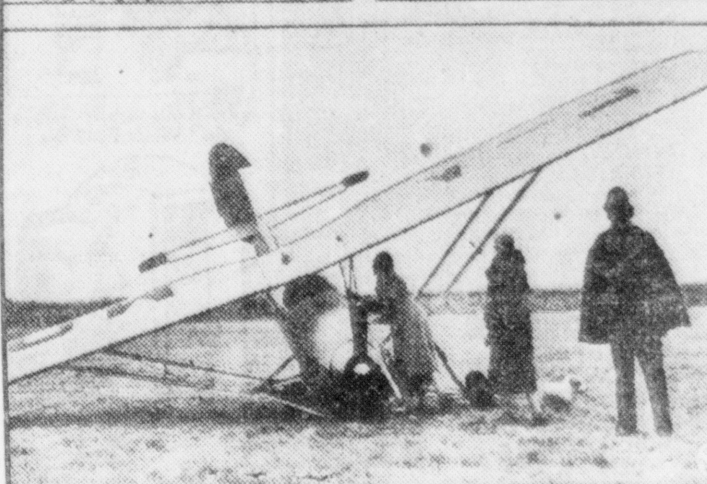

Court Gloom Banished
The somewhat gloomy court—gloomy since the two women had been alone with their sorrow—soon seemed to be full of laughs and smiles. Prince Charming had touched the gloom and made it disappear!

So tomorrow while the military band plays that impressive Dutch national anthem, "Wilhelmus van Nassauwe," hundreds of years old, the Prince and Princess will enter Town Hall. In less than half an hour they will appear again, while the crowds break out in thundering hurrahs. The civil ceremony will be over and the Princess and Prince will be married according to the laws of Holland.

The civil marriage will be confirmed solemnly in the so-called Great Church at The Hague later. In every town, village and hamlet in Holland there will be music, dancing and fireworks and illuminated buildings. The celebrations will continue through Jan. 8.

Meanwhile, however, the royal newlyweds will have departed on their honeymoon. When they return they will proceed to the Palace at Soestdijk, the place Queen Wilhelmina has presented them. The Palace once belonged to Princess Juliana's grandmother, Queen Emma.

Aviatrix Held in Mad Escapade

Twice recklessly risking her life in a mad aviation escapade and escaping unhurt, Mme. Marie Schmeder Chapellut, top left, was held in England pending action on a French extradition request. She was accused of shooting Pierre L'Allemand, top right, while their plane was over Paris, in a fit of rage when she learned he was to be married. L'Allemand, wounded in the neck, managed to land the plane, and Mme. Chapellut then took off alone, crossing the Channel and crashing on the English coast. There she was arrested.

Disappearance of Lillian Marie Platte, 19, above, daughter of a prominent Detroit automobile dealer, started a widespread search, though police said there was no indication that she had been abducted. The girl, a junior at the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, left home in her own car and authorities were notified after she had failed to return two days later.

TRAFFIC POLICE GO TO COLLEGE

CHICAGO, (UP)—The snorting "where d'ya think you're goin'" type of traffic officer is outmoded—policemen are going to college.

At Northwestern university, in cooperation with police and safety organizations, a training program for highway policemen is being undertaken. It aims to improve the officer's courtesy, his alertness, efficiency and understanding of the law.

The course, modeled after similar courses offered at Northwestern heretofore, puts the officer through a rigorous dual program, combining classroom theory with field practice. Special courses are offered in accident investigation, driver's tests, crowd psychology, public relations and allied subjects.

Agencies cooperating with the university in the venture are the Traffic Safety Institute, International Association of Chiefs of Police and the National Safety Council.

Fifteen nationally known vehicular traffic experts are assisting in the effort. They are: Lt. Franklin M. Krenel, director of the Traffic Safety Institute; Capt. J. C. McCann, Pennsylvania State Highway Police; Dr. Harry DeSilva, Harvard bureau for street traffic research; Sidney Williams, director of public safety division, National Safety Council; Dr. Herman E. Seise, Columbia Hospital, Milwaukee; Deputy Chief Inspector George M. Searle, New York State Troopers; Ralph Lee, General Motors; Commissioner A. W. McGee, New Jersey Motor Vehicle department; R. L. Forney, chief statistician, National Safety Council; C. E. Van Blakenstein, Michigan State Police; Paul Stricker, director of field work, National Safety Council; E. E. Powell, Black and Decker Co.; Dr. John J. B. Morgan, professor of psychology at Northwestern; Kenneth B. Dickinson, assistant director of accident prevention, Evanston police department, and J. S. Baker, assistant traffic engineer, National Safety Council.

Polaris, the north star, is becoming more truly the "pole star." Two hundred years from now it will be within one-quarter of a degree of the celestial pole.

LOVELORN SCAR SAINT'S STATUE

BREST, France, (UP)—Breton ecclesiastical officials are searching for an asbestos or carborundum nose for one of Brittany's favorite saints. They find that because of his popularity among the Breton women folk the saint's third nose has disappeared. Weary of replacing his noses they are searching for something really permanent.

Saint Guirec, Breton, patron saint of young maidens, desiring marriage, has lost his nose several times since he began his good work in the 13th century. Ecclesiastical authorities thought they had solved their problem by erecting a granite statue of the saint after his first wooden nose disappeared, but they never counted on the force of love. Tourists who are familiar with the many statues of saints in European cathedrals have seen the hollowed marble on toes, or fingers, where hundreds of thousands of pilgrims have left the imprint of their ardent, but few of them have seen the Breton holy man whose sore point is his nose.

Nose Is Pricked
According to Breton legends, Saint Guirec is an expert at arranging marriages, and if only the young woman who seeks a proper spouse will prick his nose with a pin and then say the proper prayers, everything will soon be ready. This promise has brought thousands of all ages and with all-sized pins flocking to his statue here. These assaults have made it necessary to replace the nose time and again.

At first Saint Guirec was embodied in a wooden statue with a frail wooden nose, but by daily pin-pricking soon there was no nose at all. Besieged by women trying to etch to the letter of the ritual, the nose was replaced by the authorities. It was only a wooden nose that followed the first and it soon suffered the same fate. Finally authorities decided to have done with this perpetual replacing of noses and erected a statue made entirely of granite.

But Love Never Dies
Love never dies, the Breton country folk say. No nose, even if it be made of granite, can withstand 300,000 love-stricken pin pricks a year for any length of time, facts confirm. The beautiful granite features of Saint Guirec now have become the most ugly in all Brittany, and only five little holes remain. Moreover, it seems that the potency of their patron saint has decreased with his disappearing nose.

For want of a harder substance church officials have decided to replace the saint's missing nose with another granite one. But they now have their doubts as to how long it will last. Moreover, they fear replacing it with something more substantial, for who can say that the physical impulse has not been the motivating force in winning intercession for the manager of Breton maidens? And if a pin-resisting nose were found for the saint, what would happen in Brittany?

Spotlight Again Hits Baby Marie

The comedy she portrayed as "Baby Marie" Osborne in movie films years ago was missing for Mrs. Marie Dempsey, top photo, as she told in Los Angeles court that her husband, a steel worker, stayed out late, showed up for breakfast with lipstick on his face, and claimed the lipstick was hers, when she "knew better." She won a divorce.

Lower photo shows her as she appeared when she was the baby star of the films.

TATTLERS TO MEET TONIGHT FOR ELECTION

Members of the Tavern Tattlers, Santa Ana Junior college literary organization, will meet tonight at 7:30 to elect officers for the second semester.

The members will participate in a discussion of the works of Eugene O'Neill, recent winner of the Nobel prize. The meeting is to be held in the college library.

Under the direction of the club, Tavern Post, college literary magazine, was completed and distributed to students this week. It was the first semester edition.

Twenty-two jaycee students contributed to the magazine which included original poems, short stories, prose writings, essays, and a one-act play. Barbara Lee Berger was editor. The magazine was illustrated by Jack Gardner and June Holman with lineoleum cuts.

Officers for the club are Mary Paxton, president; Katherine McDermott, vice-president and Eloise Walker, secretary. Treasurer, Thomas H. Glenn is adviser.

WHAT TO DO FOR ECZEMA ITCHING AND BURNING

Wash the affected parts with Resinol Soap and warm water to soften scales and crusts. Resinol Soap is suggested because it contains no excess of free alkali, and is especially suited to tender skin. Dry by patting with a soft cloth—do not rub.

Doctors recommend an oily ointment because it penetrates the outer layers of the skin more effectively. Resinol Ointment meets this requirement, and does even more. For over 40 years it has been—and still is—successfully used to relieve quickly the itching and burning of eczema. It contains soothing ingredients that aid healing.

Use Resinol Ointment today and enjoy comfort tomorrow. Get a jar, also a cake of Resinol Soap, at any drug store. For free sample, write to Resinol, Dept. 1, Baltimore, Md.

Jimmy Fidler in HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 6.—I plead guilty to a common human failing—I like to read other people's mail. Maybe it is the detective blood in my veins, although I have been told water runs there. At any rate, I possess an uncanny urge to sneak quick peeks into alien envelopes—and Hollywood is the best place in the world to satisfy such a yearning. Movie stars receive great quantities of mail, and they are free with it. From fan letters I have fashioned considerable knowledge of public opinions of the movie greats. Take Mae West (Oh, you will, huh? Over my dead body!) who leads the parade of stars whose screen roles are actually believed, Mae's average mail is so ribald, sexy, even downright suggestive, that it will not bear printing. Mary Astor receives many such letters, but Mary's are based on her private life.

Clark Gable is recipient of quantities of love letters, most of which come from women who believe that his ruthless "great lover" roles reflect his private mode of living. Irene Dunne and Myrna Loy receive countless letters from lonely suffering wives and sweethearts. And you would never guess the actor who receives heaps of marriage proposals from the South, so I will tell you—Step'n Fetchit.

As for my own mail, here is a sample: "If Mae West wants to go on a diet (writes a San Francisco friend), she might eat carrots—her own diamonds!" See? People take me for a silly.

I recently ran across this amusing story of a Chicago woman who moved into a house next door to Clark Gable. After much eging on, her husband agreed to invite Clark to call one evening to talk dogs and hunting (his two favorite subjects; Gable has never been known to refuse such an invitation). Near midnight, as the actor was about to take his leave, the hostess carefully salvaged the cigar ends Clark had left. "The girls back home," she explained, "will cheat each other blind when I offer these Clark Gable mementos as prizes at my next bridge tea."

In my favorite barber shop this morning (no place better for hearing back-fence gossip), I overheard an interesting discussion that may give you something to think about when you go to the movies. My pet barber started it by saying that when he sees pictures, he always looks at the actors' hair and chins. "To see if they need trims or shaves," he explained.

A dentist in the next chair interrupted to say he could well understand, because he invariably glances at teeth. He gets a kick out of picking stars who are wearing porcelain caps. Claims he can spot them in medium long shots.

Then the man who runs the cigar counter announced that he watches actors smoke. John Boles, for one, is not a real smoker. It seems that John gives away the secret by the way he puffs and holds a cigarette. The shop's manicurist put in her bid, too. She said she hoped studios would quit giving stars manicurist roles, because most of them hold finger files like letter openers.

JAYSEE PENNY FAIR WILL BE HELD JAN. 13

Tickets were on sale at Santa Ana Junior college today for the third annual Penny Fair to be held Wednesday, Jan. 13, in the National Guard armory, according to Paul Christ, general chairman.

The annual carnival is sponsored by Los Gauchos, men's service club. Each club and organization on the college campus sponsors a booth.

The carnival is open to the public and offers many features for the one-night affair, Christ said. Various games of "chance," refreshments and a dance constitute the fair. Admission is 5 cents and 1 cent is charged for each concession.

A prize is awarded each year to the club displaying the most attractive exhibit and another award is given to the organization showing the most profit from the night's fun. The club selling the most tickets will be awarded a 5-pound box of candy, it was said.

From the profits made in the past two fairs, Los Gauchos club donated a radio for the men and women's lounges on the campus. Paul Christ, president of Los Gauchos, is general chairman for the event.

Brain Twizzlers

By Prof. J. D. Flint

Jimmy Lighthouse was fond of the great gay whirl as far as entertainment was concerned. His idea of a big time was to start the evening off at the cocktail hour, progress through a prolonged dinner hour and then begin a night club parade. The idea always seemed good but Jimmy continually faced a shortage of funds. One night he did an unusual thing. He finished the evening having spent only half of the money he had started with. He noticed a curious thing when he arrived home. He had as many cents left as he had had dollars when he started and half as many dollars left as he had had cents when he started (he probably never had any sense but don't let that spoil the problem.) How much money did Jimmy start with?

GIRL RESERVES HOLD MEETING HERE MONDAY

Hope that Girl Reserves of the Santa Ana Y. W. C. A. had laid the groundwork for the building of their own forum and round-table activities, was expressed today by Miss Mary A. Porter, secretary for the department.

"Much comment has followed in the wake of the appearance here Monday afternoon of the federal forum speakers," Miss Porter said, "and the reserves and Hi-Y organization seems enthusiastic over this type of study."

"Of course, we have had a plan in mind for some time to establish a forum in a small way to give opportunity for expression of opinion on timely subjects now confronting every citizen of the county, state and nation. We doubtless will discuss the feasibility of having our own small forum at the next meeting of the organization."

Miss Porter referred in her remarks to speeches before the group by Allen C. Blaisdell, director of the International House at Berkeley, and two young forum lecturers.

POPPY PROJECT SOON WILL BE ON S. MAIN ST.

Although halted occasionally by unfavorable weather conditions, Santa Ana's poppy - planting and beautification project today had gained still more assurance of success with the announcement that all original pledges, totaling $180, had been paid to the committee, and that the work shortly would be transferred to South Main street.

The announcement came from Mrs. Ora K. Heine, chairman of the general committee in charge, who said she had received a check yesterday afternoon from the local lodge No. 734 B. O. Elks.

"Every Bit Helps" Checks previously had been received from the Kiwanis, Rotary and Lions clubs, the American Legion and the Realty Board. Each organization contributed $30.

"We wish to make it clear in this connection that this amount certainly is not the smallest that may be donated toward the project," Mrs. Heine said. "Any little sum at all will be gratefully accepted. It all goes to buy the seed and to pay for the labor of plowing the parkings and the work of planting." Mrs. Heine recently was authorized by the group to receive donations of any size through the mail at her home, 520 West Fourth street.

Up to the latest rain, workmen had finished planting poppy seeds on Flower street from First street to Santa Ana boulevard, and on the latter from Flower to North Main street, which was the starting point of the small crew.

Expect Bloom in March

Directly after extensive work is completed on Flower Fourth to Bristol and East Fourth near the city boundary, the arrangements for the plowing of parkings on South Main street from Fairview avenue to Delhi road will be completed.

Mrs. Heine and other committee members estimated that the first rich bloom of yellow and red poppies would appear the latter part of March, and be greatly in evidence at the height of tourist traffic on the city's main thoroughfares.

As such a public and civic-wide advertisement, the poppy beds are expected to lend great assistance to the scheme to follow up with the planting of permanent plants and shrubs that ultimately will win for Santa Ana the appellation of "the friendly city beautiful."

AVIATRIX WILL BE ON PROGRAM

Charming, tousle-headed Amelia Earhart, world famous aviatrix, will speak Friday evening at 8:15 o'clock at Bridges auditorium, Claremont, as the first notable to appear on the Claremont college's lecture series, it was announced today. Her subject, she announced, will be "Aviation Adventures."

In private life, Mrs. George Putnam, Miss Earhart has had an enviable place in aviation history since she became a flyer in 1920. In 1928, she startled the world by flying across the Atlantic, first woman to do so. Then she became the first person to fly the Atlantic twice, the first woman to make a transcontinental non-stop flight, and the first person to fly alone from Honolulu to the United States and from Mexico City to New York. She was the first woman to receive the Distinguished Flying Cross from the United States government. An author and interesting speaker.

Miss Earhart recently returned to the scene of her earliest flying days, Southern California, in her 210-mile-an-hour, twin-engine Lockheed Electra. Reservations may be made for Miss Earhart's appearance or for the series which includes appearances of Martin and Osa Johnson, Admiral Richard Byrd, Thornton Wilder, Senor Madariaga and Everett Dean Martin, according to Robert J. Bernard, in charge of program announcements. Either write or telephone Claremont, he advises.

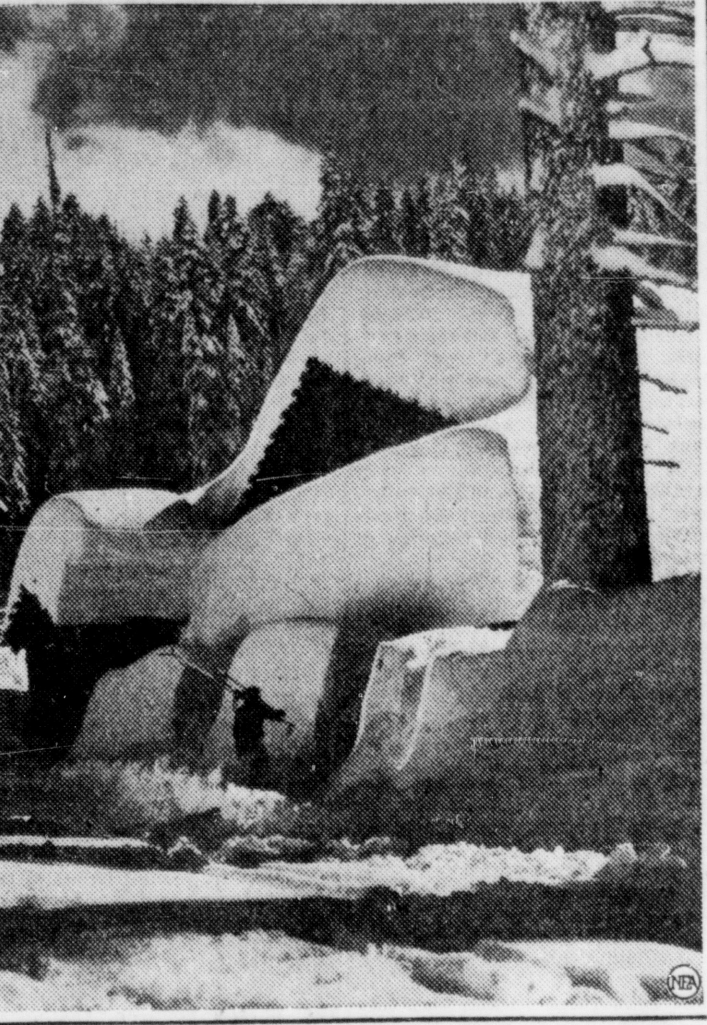

STUDENTS TO TRY EPIC LOS ANGELES, (UP) — Upton Sinclair's EPIC may be dead but students at the University of California are still going to give it a tryout. They have organized student cooperatives to solve the problem of housing and to reduce the cost of living. They expect to reduce both to $20 a month for each co-operator.

The Morning After Taking Carter's Little Liver Pills

A-Drift in an Ocean of Snow

Those who like winter—and more of it—can bank on a big time here. It's a typical scene in Badger Pass, Yosemite national park, in middle eastern California. The shelter buried in snow is the ski house for those who insist on climbing out of warm valleys to their favorite sport. One of California's beauty spots, this is no place for a person who hates a little snow over the sheetops.

WINDS DESTROY, THEN REBUILD

DALHART, Tex. (UP)—Winds on the Great Plains, for many years used to raise sub-surface water in windmills and recently, harnessed to generate electricity, are being used to rebuild that which they destroyed—the farm-lands.

Sand dunes, some as high as a house, have spotted many unkempt fields and ruined them for ordinary cultivation. Government experts, brought in to combat erosion, have discovered that the prevailing westerly winds can be used to tear down the dunes which they have built by piling sand around some fixed object—a tumbleweed, clump of tall grass or fence post.

"The windward slopes are generally low and gently rising, while the leeward slopes are crescent-shaped," said Dr. Charles C. Whithead of the federal soil conservation service. "There is evidence that the crescent shape of the dunes is responsible for the increase in the dune size. When the wind approaches the top of the dune it drops its load of sand due to the eddies of wind current that move at right angles against the prevailing wind."

By eliminating the crescent, where adverse wind currents are generated, workers found they could halt the increase in the size of a dune. They dragged heavy poles across the dunes with horses, tearing down the "trap" formed by the pile of sand. Eighteen months ago, one typical area ruined by the sand near Dalhart, had 50 dunes measuring from two to 18 feet high. Within one year they had been cultivated until only 12 remained, all of small size.

After a sandy field is rehabilitated, vegetation must be planted to prevent dunes from reaccumulating. In some cases, native weeds were encouraged to grow; in others, the owners planted drought-resisting crops. Most widespread of all methods used in the Texas Panhandle is that of listing (surface plowing) the land with the prevailing winds. Such operations also are believed to retard the speed of winds across the plains.

FORCEY'S SERVICE IS OPENED TODAY

With all machinery and equipment in place Forcey's United Automotive Service opened for business today in its new location at First and Main streets, according to the announcement of A. J. Tobey, manager of the service. The service has been located at 302 East Fifth street for many years and recently signed a long time lease on the property at First and Main streets. Tobey said that additional equipment has been added, making possible the most extensive automotive service available to motorists.

FORMER RESIDENT KILLED IN CRASH

Word of the death of Owen E. Foley, 36, formerly of El Toro district, in an automobile accident at Bakersfield Sunday has been received here. Mr. Foley was the son-in-law of Irvin G. Thompson, of Tustin.

Mr. Foley is survived by his widow, Clara Elizabeth, and two children, Clara Wilma and Lester. The family home is in Fresno.

OWNERSHIP OF PROPERTY IS DEBATE TOPIC

Debaters at last night's meeting of the Forum for Political and Economic Education, at the Junior college, were aimed at the subject, "Resolved, That the Amount an Individual Could Own Should Be Limited," but actually presented an interesting dissertation upon the merits and demerits of the capitalistic and socialistic systems of government, before the evening was over.

The audience took a vigorous part in the arguing following presentation of the affirmative by Attorney W. Maxwell Burke, and the negative, by Paul Alberts, student of economics who is planning for a college professorship.

"I've heard of speakers taken to task in the public press merely by debating a subject as a debate, but if you expect a man to voice his own, personal philosophies, then I'm going to do it—and if that be treason, why make the most of it," Burke said, smilingly, as he introduced the subject. "But this subject, as stated, doesn't lend itself to debate. Does 'amount' refer to money or goods or what? And what does 'own' mean here? Sometimes one may own without controlling or control without owning."

"But I will say," "that it would be foolish, unthinkable, under our present capitalistic system, to limit what a man can own—if you do, it must depend upon the limit placed. If placed too high, it wouldn't mean much. If placed too low, such as at $50,000 or $100,000, you would limit production and you know we must produce just as much as we possibly can."

He felt that only under another system of government, the kind he advocates, state socialism, could one successfully limit the amount owned by an individual. To limit it under capitalism would be folly, he declared.

"Under my kind of proposed government, I believe personal consumption should be unlimited, but that ownership of productive goods should be limited completely—to zero," he said. "I'm not referring to trifles—a needle for instance—but to the great means of production and distribution. However, the limiting I refer to, under socialism, involves the whole social system and collective ownership. The affirmative speaker differentiated between state socialism and communism, pointing out that the socialist is an opportunist who develops his government by constitutional and peaceful means, while the communist preaches his government upon use of necessary force to accomplish the purpose, both forms of government having the same purpose, however, benefits for all of the people.

The present capitalistic system involves tremendous waste, Attorney Burke said, declaring that he knew no one who bathed with a particular kind of soap because the public eye more often than others and added that few persons know the difference between one brand of whiskey and another, by the taste. He pointed to competing milk men, operating along the same route daily, as representative of waste of both capital and labor. "Man goes into business without knowing or caring if the supply of his product is ample or not," he said. He named Russia as the only existing government which actually has the welfare of the masses as its goal. He agreed that socialism might contain some corruption in its ranks but doubted that there would be so much as "is now found in capitalism." The power of private wealth is too great, he said.

Alberts, negative speaker, declared it was the desire for free expression, freedom to do as they pleased, which caused people from Europe to rebel and to set up a new type of government in America. He argued that socialism would stifle personal liberty and our original craving for independence, craving for the privilege of trying to advance ourselves and families. The capitalistic system is the system which answers the desires of the majority of Americans, he said.

"If we are to limit the amount an individual may own, how can anyone develop character and personality?" Alberts asked. "Personality development allows of an abundant life. To be allowed to do our best to obtain an unlimited amount of wealth is part and parcel of our democracy. Unlimited ownership promotes investments and sound investments eventually promote increase in our standards of living. Furthermore, the psychologists tell us we must keep busy, must strive to go forward and accept toward accomplishment would be inhibited by a government in which everything was controlled, including individual effort. He said advancements in science would be hindered under socialism "because the incentive would be gone."

"The debate boils down to capitalism vs. socialism," Alberts said, as he has been said in the general discussion here, socialism cannot work unless you change the nature of individuals."

Meeting Chairman W. H. (Ted) Blanding said next Tuesday night's subject will be announced later.

GIRL REPORTER TALKS TO EDDY BEHIND SCENES

By MARY KNOCH (Junior College Co-ed)

After the concert starring the well-known baritone, Nelson Eddy, had ended, Russell Crouse presented him with a silhouetting made by him and which was a remarkable likeness to the star of the evening. Mr. Crouse explained that the silhouetting was made of a plastic material the outline of which was cut with a jig-saw. The features of the etching were cut in on an etching plate and the inside surface is finished by polishing. The finished article leaves only the needle point lines in motif. Mr. Eddy was pleased with the gift and Crouse was rewarded for his work by the smile of approval and the words of thanks which came from the singer.

When the curtains had come together after Mr. Eddy's last encore I had slipped back stage in order to interview the famous baritone and thought I came near to being ushered out, Clarence Gustin came to my rescue and introduced me to Mr. Eddy. Having been aware of the fact that Mr. Eddy had at one time been a newspaper reporter I was a little worried as to what he might be thinking of my amateur methods of procedure. But he was an extremely easy person to talk with and the conversation flowed smoothly.

"Newspaper work is fine and stick to it," was the advice he gave this cub reporter. "My advice is to just try and do a little better than the other fellow and then you'll get ahead in the newspaper field." Encouraged by his remarks I continued and the conversation turned to the picture "Maytime," which is to star Mr. Eddy and Jeanette MacDonald. He said that although he and Miss MacDonald have been working constantly on the picture it probably will not be released for at least three weeks. The picture is one in the series of musical pictures in which Mr. Eddy and Miss MacDonald co-star.

Mr. Gustin asked the permission of Nelson Eddy to admit some of the ushers who wanted the autograph of the famous star and Mr. Eddy gave his consent. But when the stage door was opened a huge crowd of women and children swarmed in taking us all by surprise. We found ourselves completely surrounded and as papers and pencils were held out to him, Mr. Eddy began himself at a small table to sign his name to pictures, programs and autograph books. Questions were hurled at him from all parts of the crowd and he found it difficult to answer them all.

After a time he arose and questioned the whereabouts of his pianist, Theodore Paxson. He was informed that Mr. Paxson had left. Viewing the crowd about him, he lifted his head and cried, "Oh, Min." This brought gales of laughter from his on-lookers and swinging his coat over his arm he stated that he simply must be going and lowering above the heads of his many admirers he began to make his way to his dressing room. Once in the open he made a mad dash for the door and at last was secluded from the crowd.

Soon the people were ushered off the stage and though many lingered hoping to catch another glimpse of the star they were disappointed for he had gone. But with him he took the knowledge that he had been well liked and that the people of Santa Ana will look forward to his return in the near future.

Nelson Eddy's versatility was shown in the selection of the numbers on his program. For, included in the list, were songs in three different languages, French, Russian and German, a Negro spiritual, and a popular song. These selections were accompanied by other songs which are favorites of the whole audience. He presented his songs with facial expressions and actions which added greatly to the enjoyment of his audience.

CHANDLER WILL HANDLE IRWIN LINE IN S. A.

Manufacturers of the largest and most comprehensive line of furniture in the United States and with a background of 60 years devoted to the making of highest quality furniture, The Robert W. Irwin Company of Grand Rapids, Mich., today announces their appointment of Ira Chandler and Son, Main at Third, Santa Ana, as exclusive dealer for the Irwin line in this vicinity.

In placing the publicity in connection with this event, Gordon Dunlop, publicity and advertising director of Chandler's says: "No name in fine furniture is better known to lovers of fine furniture than Irwin. Being sold by only the better and most exclusive stores throughout America, Chandler's feel highly complimented by the invitation to join this select group."

"For over half a century fine homes and mansions of the world have enjoyed the rich and exclusive creations of Irwin. Among the movie personalities perhaps no furniture name is so favorably and well known as Irwin. Practically every moving picture produced by Warner Brothers requiring fine furniture has featured Robert Irwin creations."

You will see Irwin furniture in many of the scenes in the "Gold Diggers of 1937" starring Joan Blondell and Dick Powell which opens at the West Coast theater Friday, at the internationally known flappers as Kay Francis, Patricia Ellis, Jane Froman, Jo Ann Blondell, Anita Louise and a host of others have produced their finest work with Irwin furniture playing an important part.

"Until recent years the cost of producing this quality furniture has limited its field to only those of substantial means, but now with newer methods of production lowering costs, the Irwin line is available to home lovers of moderate circumstances as well."

"With the outstanding reputation back of the Irwin line, it is with considerable pride and satisfaction that Chandlers represent this com-

TED JACKMAN TALKS TONIGHT ON PALESTINE

Preparations have been completed for the lecture tonight at the Broadway and Walnut Church of Christ by Ted Jackman, world traveler and authority on Palestine and other Biblical countries, it was revealed today by James H. Sewell, minister of the church. The service begins at 7:30.

The lecture will begin a series of weekly lectures to be delivered here by the noted Santa Ana traveler. The series, however, will be interrupted for a short time while an evangelistic effort is under way, beginning next Sunday. Boone Douthit, Kentucky evangelist, will be the speaker during that revival, to continue nightly for two weeks.

Mr. Jackman has been in great demand since his return last summer from an extended tour which took him around the world and into Palestine and Egypt for an intensive study of those lands. He took numerous moving pictures of unusual scenes, together with "stills" which he will show in the form of stereoscopic slides during the course of his lectures. Although located in Hollywood at the present time he will drive to Santa Ana each week to give his messages. It is planned to make the series one of real Bible study, so that those interested in learning more about the history and geography of the Holy Land may have the opportunity of doing so under the able leadership of Mr. Jackman, Mr. Sewell said.

A quartet will sing "The Beautiful Garden of Prayer" and "Shepherd of Israel." There will also be congregational singing. A silver offering will be taken to defray the expenses of the lecture.

J. C. ENGINEERS TO ELECT THIS EVENING

Election of officers will be the main order of business for the Santa Ana Junior college chapter of the American Association of Engineers when they meet tonight at 7:30.

Charles Roemer, jaycee student in charge of the college weather bureau, will give a report on his work. He provides local papers with readings each day from the station.

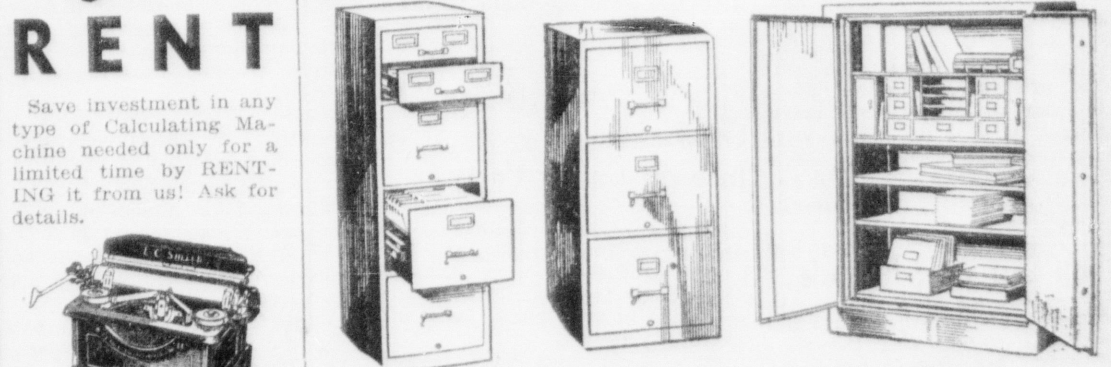

Officers who have served the first semester are Josh Brady, president; Fred Dierker, vice-president; William Ruddiman, secretary; Charles Roemer, treasurer; John Ramirez, publicity manager; H. O. Russell is adviser.

SOCIETY AND CLUBS

WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

Guests Bidden
To Dinner And Contract Play

Dedicated to hospitality and friendliness immediately after its completion, the charming new home of Mrs. and Mrs. E. S. Chandler, at 1811 Heliotrope drive again was opened to guests last night when Lieut. Com. and Mrs. Irwin F. Landis joined with Mr. and Mrs. Chandler in presenting a dinner-bridge party.

Flowers and soft candlelight added their charm to the dinner hour, and place cards of artistic design later served to re-group the diners for their evening of contract play.

The hosts had arranged what they designated as the "family prize" for that husband and wife whose combined scores ranked highest. The James Harding "family" took this trophy, while other prizes went for individual high scores held by Mrs. H. T. Dunning, Mrs. A. G. Flagg and Messrs. George Briggs and James Irvine.

Mr. and Mrs. Chandler and Lieut. Com. and Mrs. Landis included on their guest list Mrs. Sara Johnston Haddon, Mrs. Margarette Borgmeyer, Mrs. Will A. Flood, of Pasadena; Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Gregory, of Los Angeles; Messrs. and Mesdames George Briggs, C. V. Davis, H. T. Dunning, A. G. Flagg, James Harding, J. K. Hermon, R. C. Holles, James Irvine, Clair Johnson, Leonard G. Swales, Howard Timmons, Robert G. Tuthill and Wade Warner.

New Year's Day Bride
Inspires Gift
Shower

Opportunity to offer their best wishes to Mrs. William L. Trueblood, a New Year's Day bride, was given a group of friends assembled early this week for a party in the home of Mrs. Trueblood's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Drewes, 605 South Parton street.

Since the marriage of Miss Florence Drewes and Mr. Trueblood was a very quiet event in St. Anne's rectory, this week's party was the first occasion for the friendly group to greet the honoree as a young matron.

Miscellaneous gifts were presented to the new Mrs. Trueblood, Nut roll ice cream designed with Christmas trees and stars was served with cake and coffee.

Present were Mrs. R. R. Trueblood, mother of the bridegroom; and Mesdames J. Burns, Roy Burns, E. Trueblood, Peter Benethin, Thos. Croddy, James Seelye, Carl Alderson, Harold Cook, F. Glasscock, Dean Morehouse, G. McKenna, Marvin Verington, H. Wagner, Carl Lumley and S. Smith; the Misses Helen Benethin, Grace Cook, Mildred Beuter, Lola Wether, Agnes McKenna and Joan Carol Drewes, with the hostess and the guest of honor.

"Communism" Provides
Theme for D. A. R.
Speaker

S. W. Strathman of Fullerton gave a talk, and Mrs. Charles G. Nalle arranged a musical program for a meeting of Santa Ana chapter D. A. R. Monday afternoon in the home of Mrs. George Bond, 507 East Myrtle street.

Mrs. Cotton Mather, program chairman, introduced Mr. Strathman, whose subject, "The Workings of Communism in the United States," was handled in masterly fashion showing much research.

Mrs. Nalle played piano accompaniment for her daughter, Miss Mary Nalle, who sang "Dedication" (Franz); "Cradle Song" (Brahms); "Come Out in the Sweet Spring Night" (Gilbert); David Craighead played a group of piano solos, "Aragonaire" (Massenet); "Song of the Mesa" (Homer Grunn); "Hungarian Etude" (Macedowell).

Thirty members were present for the meeting, which was conducted by Regent Mrs. J. H. Nicholson. Announcement was made of a D. A. R. council meeting to be held January 19 in Los Angeles; and of a state convention to be held February 23, 24 and 25 in San Jose.

Guests were Mrs. Burns of Villa Park; Mrs. Jessie Plumb, who plans to transfer her membership from Colorado Springs D. A. R. to Santa Ana chapter; and the Rev. A. J. Clouse.

Mrs. Jennie Crawford and Mrs. Marietta Philpott poured tea late in the afternoon, presiding at a table centered with red roses. Hostesses with Mrs. Bond were Mesdames John Mitchell, Allan Goddard, A. J. Clouse, C. E. Downie, J. H. Nicholson and George Perkins.

You and Your Friends

"Captain Hates The Sea"
Disproven By Fine Speaker

Probably in his lecture tours over the United States, Commodore Herbert Hartley, formerly in command of the S. S. Leviathan, and featured speaker at yesterday's meeting of Woman's club of Santa Ana, frequently encounters former passengers on that famous vessel. But yesterday he had the pleasant experience of meeting Mrs. David Ball of this city, who was with him on his maiden voyage as commander of the stately ship.

Mrs. Ball, whose home is at 2235 Santiago street, is a member of the Woman's club, so her pleasure was pronounced in hearing the man under whom she made one of her European trips, and that on his first voyage in command of a vessel. Their meeting at the close of the address, brought tears very close to the surface in more than one pair of eyes.

Program Chairman. It was the privilege of Mrs. Herbert Johnson, program chairman, to present Commodore Hartley, whose genial humor was manifested from the very beginning of his talk. While many of his reminiscences were inspired by his command of the Leviathan, he went back to his early days at sea on the old Saratoga, virtually a sister ship of the Constitution, and later on the U. S. S. St. Louis, which marked the transition from sails to steam.

In his 25 years at sea, Commander Hartley crossed the Atlantic 860 times in official capacity. His deep love for the sea and his life career was evidenced in the entire talk, quite disproving the popular book of the past year, "The Captain Hates the Sea." He explained some of the customs, and during this interval he showed a fine example of the "bo'sun's pipe" as it signals the departure of the captain's gig from vessel to shore. One of his personal reminiscences was of his first landing in England when a little old lady inspired him with ambition to advance in his chosen career. Later she sewed the first of the many narrow bands of gold braid that today decorate the sleeves of his uniform, and the close friendship existed between them until her death at the advanced age of 92.

During the World War when he was commissioned as a lieutenant commander and the St. Louis was re-christened the U. S. S. Louisville, he naturally had many stirring adventures. Some of these were recounted with spirit and the stress and tension of life at sea were suggested.

Many Celebrities

In command of the St. Louis, and again the Leviathan, Commodore Hartley came in contact with world celebrities, and he has a vast fund of anecdotes regarding them. There was Will Rogers for instance, to whom the honor of the Leviathan's captaincy was accorded for a brief few minutes, in appreciation of his efforts in organizing a benefit concert in which such artists as Heifetz and Kreisler took enthusiastic part. There was David Sarnoff, the St. Louis wireless boy, now president of Radio corporation; Queen Marie of Roumania; Clarence Chamberlain who made the first delivery of ship-to-shore mail from the Leviathan; George B. McClellan, mayor of New York, Commander Richard Byrd and innumerable others of whom he could tell fascinating tales.

When Mrs. F. A. Martin, club president, expressed the club's appreciation for the address, she revealed that Commodore Hartley is to be here for a later speaking engagement before American Legion auxiliary.

Song Numbers. Mrs. Johnson had provided music as appropriate finale to the afternoon and Miss Anne Wetherell sang very sweetly, "Liebestraum," "Love's a Merchant" and "Till I Wake," with her mother, Mrs. H. G. Wetherell as accompanist.

In the business session preceding the program, various reports were followed by an announcement to come including Poetry section next Tuesday morning at 10:30 with Mrs. Earl Ladd; Afternoon Social section late in January in the G. V. Linsenbard home; Study section's covered dish luncheon Friday with Mrs. E. C. Wilson, 630 Orange avenue, and the section's general club program of a "Deerist Skule" on January 19 with Mrs. William Kuhn as "principal."

Fifteenth Anniversary
Of Wedding
Inspires Dinner Party

In celebration of their fifteenth wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Pickard were hosts to members of their family at dinner last night in their home, 530 South Van Ness avenue.

Table decorations were carried out with blue candles in silver holders and a centerpiece in the same colors.

The guests included Mrs. Pickard's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Leo R. Diers, of Seattle; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Thomsen of Long Beach; her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Dee Lance of Long Beach; and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Pickard.

It was in Long Beach that Miss Ella Thomsen became the bride of Harry S. Pickard on January 5, 1922. Mr. Pickard had a long and distinguished World War record in France, and after he and Mrs. Pickard came to Santa Ana a dozen years ago, he identified himself with Jack Fisher chapter D. A. V. He has been especially active in all its affairs, and has served as commander. One of his major activities has been in connection with the annual Jack Fisher Military ball whereby the organization raises funds for its rehabilitation work.

Club Names February
Date For Benefit
Card Party

Plans for a benefit bridge party to be held February 2 at 8 p. m. in the Y. W. rooms were outlined by members of the Wrycende Maedneub club when they met last night in the Y. W. rooms for their first event of the new year.

Miss Marion Minor, finance chairman of the club, will be in general charge of party plans. Working with her will be Miss Roma Mayes, tickets; Miss Helen O'Brien, reservations; Mrs. Frank Thomson, tallies, score pads and decorations; Miss Jean Emma, tables and chairs; Miss Virginia Anthony, Miss Bernice Smith, cards; Miss Janice Yetmar, prizes; Miss Raymond Hannah and Miss Rose Lesh, refreshments and serving; Mrs. William Fritcher, reception; Miss Genevieve Hanson, cleanup.

The party will be open to the public, and will feature both auction and contract bridge. Refreshments will be served. Last night's business meeting was followed by a program on Mexico, with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Perry showing motion pictures of the interesting country. Mrs. Perry told of their travels through Mexico two years ago, describing the country, its peoples and their customs. A fascinating display of articles made by natives of Mexico had been arranged to add to the program.

Announcement was made that Morgan Samuel Odell, associate professor of religion at Occidental College will be speaker at the club's next meeting, Tuesday at 6:15 o'clock in the Y. W. rooms. Board members of the Y. W. C. A. will be guests at the meeting. All members of the club are invited to bring other guests, and to make their reservations for the affair in advance.

FOR NEWCOMERS

Recent arrival from Orange City, Iowa, of the Misses Cynthia and Elizabeth Schalekamp to make their home in Santa Ana, inspired a friendly little tea of Monday afternoon, when their sister, Mrs. Mary Van Wyk, complimented them in her home, 840 North Ross street.

The Misses Schalekamp are now established at 1017 Spurgeon street. It was especially enjoyable for them to meet some of their sister's close friends at such a pretty tea. An added pleasure was the song group by their nephew's wife, Mrs. Charles Van Wyk. She played her own accompaniment and sang a succession of request numbers before the afternoon closed with the friendly tea hour.

Announcements

Hoover P.-T. A. will meet tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. in the school. Executive board members are reminded that the general session will be preceded by a special meeting at 2 o'clock.

St. Joseph Altar society will meet Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the home of Mrs. Carl Klatt, East Seventeenth street at Tustin avenue. There will be a short business meeting and election of officers during the afternoon, with a social hour later. Co-hostesses will be the Misses Bertha and Rose Klatt and Mrs. Henry Lipplatt. Members who need transportation are asked to telephone the president, Mrs. F. F. Mead, 1265.

Standard Life association will have a special New Year's program Thursday evening at 7:30 in M. W. A. hall. Mrs. Vada Pankey, Mrs. Martha Schreff, Mrs. Lillian Harris and Mrs. Georgia Mills are in charge of the program.

First Congregational church members and friends are anticipating their annual church dinner, an event to be held this evening at 6:30 o'clock in the dining room of the church. This will be a covered dish dinner to which each family will contribute special fare. After dinner program features will be devoted to reports from heads of various departments, thus acquainting the entire congregation with the progress and activities of the church as a whole.

Golden State Luncheon club is to meet Friday for 12:30 o'clock covered dish luncheon in the home of Mrs. V. J. Anderson, 930 South Main street.

White Shrine lodge will entertain the supreme high priestess, Mrs. Frances M. Ebert, of Pittsburg, Friday evening at 6:30 in the Masonic temple when they will serve a turkey dinner. Mrs. Ebert will be guest of honor and other high officers of the state will be present. Dinner tickets will be at a nominal price.

American Legion auxiliary will have a regular business meeting at 7:30 p. m. Thursday in Veterans hall.

Mary Blair class of the First Presbyterian church will meet Friday at 2 p. m. with Mrs. E. Hull, 1923 North Ross street. An interesting program has been arranged, and all members are urged to be present.

Fashion Show
Leader Named
For Jr. Ebell

"If winter comes, can spring be far behind"—so while heavy rains and mountain snows give evidence that this is midwinter, Junior Ebell society members already are anticipating their annual fashion show as one of the highlights of the season which is just around the corner.

Appointment of Mrs. George Walker as chairman of the fashion show and bridge tea was made by board members last night at a meeting which preceded the general session in the clubhouse peacock room. It is expected that committee workers will be appointed this month, with announcement of tentative plans for the party to be made in February.

Board members voted on a group of new members, Mesdames Frank Hillgass, Herbert Hill, Dana Lamb, Clark Brakebill, Alvin Drumm and Miss Helen Tietzen, who will be introduced to the general membership at the February meeting.

Program. Thomas Glenn, member of Junior college faculty, provided last night's program for the club, giving a talk on England, a country in which he has spent a great deal of time as student and traveler as well.

The speaker showed pictures of some of England's famous buildings and historical spots. He read poems and quotations from the works of some of the British Isles' most beloved and well-known writers. Mr. Glenn was introduced by the program chairman, Mrs. Harold Dale.

Mrs. Crawford Nalle, president, conducted a business meeting during which Miss Nan Mead talked on the blind machine which the society has purchased as a welfare project. Mrs. Robert Guild gave a report on the city beautification project, and announced that Junior Ebell Garden section is assisting in the distribution of poppy seeds.

Social Hour. Mrs. Ernest Stump Jr., chairman of the social committee for the evening, was assisted by Mesdames Donald Plumb, Q. L. Hardy, Paul Hales, Joseph Knox and the Misses Ruth Baker, Marion Brownridge and Mary Tuthill. They served refreshments at the close of the meeting, China lilies and yellow tapers adorned the tea table.

New Officers Conduct
Stanford Women's Club Event

New officers of Stanford Women's club, headed by Miss Margaret Swingle of Huntington Beach as president, took over their duties Monday night when the organization held its opening meeting of the year in the home of Miss Thelma Patton, 1103 North Broadway.

Mrs. Edna Dean Condon of Huntington Beach, and Mrs. John Jacobs of this city, vice president, comprise Miss Swingle's official staff. Plans were outlined for a new year of activity which will center as usual, on the raising of money for the club's scholarship fund.

Mrs. Joseph H. Livernash of Orange had arranged the evening's program. She played piano accompaniment for Mrs. Haven A. Smith of Orange, who sang several songs in a cycle of garden theme selections. In connection with this delightful feature, Mrs. Smith gave a talk on "Gardens."

Miss Patton and her co-hostess, Mrs. Ross Shafer, served refreshments at the evening's close.

Announcement was made that the next meeting will be held Monday, February 1 in the home of Mrs. Alice Whitaker, Fullerton. Mrs. Mabel Dixon will be co-hostess.

DESSERT BRIDGE CLUB

Three guests joined members of a two table bridge club for a pleasant afternoon yesterday in the home of Mrs. Q. L. Hardy, 1250 South Ross street.

Dessert was served to precede card play in which Mrs. Herbert Hill and Mrs. Frank Lewis held the two highest scores. Mrs. Hill, Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. Reese Green were guests, sharing the affair with members including the hostess and Mesdames William Jerome Jr., Joseph Irwin, G. Stanley Norton, this community; Mrs. Bruce Harding, Whittier.

Mrs. Irwin will be hostess at the next meeting.

Calumpit Auxiliary Holds
Annual Installation Rites

With installation of Mrs. Jean Tautlinger in the post of president of Calumpit auxiliary U. S. W. V., and her sister officers duly inducted into their new duties, that organization is ready to embark on the new year of 1937.

Installation ceremonies were held last night in Knights of Columbus hall in conjunction with Calumpit camp U. S. W. V. whose new commander will be Charles Reagan, a large crowd of personal friends and representatives of other patriotic orders was assembled for the joint ceremonial. There was a short business meeting conducted by the new staff during which reports for the year were given. One application for membership was received, that of Maude M. Terry of Orange.

Formal Dinner. In advance of installation rites for the two organizations, members of both groups met at Danliger's for a formal turkey dinner served to accompany of attractive flowers and candlelight.

Official Family. Officers inducted with her were Mesdames Luella Randall, senior vice-president; Ruth Hess, junior vice-president; Effie Hawley, chaplain; Edna Hannah, secretary; Jane Winters, treasurer; Mary Mann, patriotic instructor; Emma King Wassum, historian; Elvira Kurtz, conductor; Dena Isbell, assistant conductor; Elizabeth M. Erickson, reporter; Lula Chatlain, guard; Susan Wine, assistant guard; Elva Hunt, musician; Beasley Fitzpatrick, Katherine Reagan, Mabel Sands, Maude Brown, Elizabeth Moberly, Rena Wheeler, Marie Lindquist and Cora Graham, colors.

The subsequent session was fully as interesting as were the impressive installation rites, and one of Mrs. Tautlinger's first gracious acts as president, was to present a gift to Mrs. Hazel Hall, her immediate predecessor in office. Mrs. Hall also received her past president's pin at the hands of Mrs. May Glaze, past president of the

Young Couple
Wed At Early Morning Rites

Throughout the day yesterday friends called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hauptert, 821 Garfield street to offer their congratulations to their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Hauptert, whose marriage took place yesterday morning. The newly-married couple now are on a honeymoon trip, planning to return to Santa Ana late this week to take up residence on West Eighth street.

The marriage of Miss Loretta Griffin of Gardner, Kans., and Mr. Hauptert took place at 8 o'clock in the morning in St. Joseph church, where early mass was conducted by the Rev. Father Timothy Galvin. Tall white tapers gleamed at the altar with its appointments of poinsettias.

Miss Constance Brown played the wedding marches, and during communion gave other organ numbers.

The bride was attractive in a black sports outfit with a corsage cluster of gardenias. A similar costume was worn by the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Geraldine Hauptert, who was maid of honor.

Wedding Breakfast. The ceremony was followed by a breakfast in the Doris Kathryn, where fragrant stock and other blossoms in pastel tints appointed the table. A decorated cake was cut by the bride.

In the group with the bridal couple were Mr. and Mrs. Hauptert, Miss Geraldine and Miss Dorine Hauptert; Paul and Bernard Hauptert; Bobbie Voskuhl, Albert Kluthe, B. K. Hackler, Mrs. Mary Hackler, Edward Heffner, all of this community; with the bridegroom's cousins, Miss Margaret and Charles Hauptert of Keota, Ia. Open house was observed in the Hauptert home for the remainder of the day.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Santa Ana High school and Junior college, is associated with his father in a service station. The new Mrs. Hauptert had her schooling in Gardner, Kans.

HOME FROM PASADENA

After a five days' visit in Pasadena, Los Angeles and neighboring cities, Mrs. F. D. Hawkins has returned to her home, 412 West Second street.

The Santa Anan was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Stone of Pasadena, accompanying them to various points of interest. The group visited Forest Lawn Memorial park with its Little Church of the Flowers and Wee Kirk o' the Heather. They attended Sunday services at Pasadena First Methodist church, and enjoyed the singing of a choir composed of more than 200 voices.

Mrs. Hawkins and Mr. and Mrs. Stone spent one evening in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Roy Stone in Pasadena. Mrs. Roy Stone, talented musician, entertained with a program of piano numbers.

The Mixing Bowl

By Ann Meredith

When you get tired of the eternal round of toast for breakfast, every day in the week, give the family and yourself a break by serving a coffee cake you can whip up while the oven is heating.

Quick Coffee Cake

Sift together:
2 cups flour with
3 teaspoons baking powder,
1-3 cup sugar and
1-2 teaspoon salt

Beat together:
1 egg, 2 tablespoons melted butter and
1 cup rich milk

Whip into a smooth batter, add 1-3 cup washed raisins and spread in a shallow buttered pan.

Topping

3 tablespoons melted butter mixed with 1-2 cup sugar, then with 3-4 cup finely crushed graham crackers.
Cinnamon.
Strew the topping over the batter, dust generously with cinnamon and bake about 15 minutes in a hot oven. Serve warm with coffee.

You will find every item listed in the coffee cake in our big Calory List. Exchange one of your best recipe for publication in our Wednesday columns, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and the list is yours.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Blueberry Pudding

1 pint cooked berries
1 tablespoon butter
1-2 cup brown sugar
Few grains of salt
Drain the berries and put them in a skillet with the butter, sugar and salt. Cook for 10 minutes, adding juice by degrees until there will be about 2 1/2 cups of the berry mixture. Put in a baking dish and cover with this batter mixture:
Cream 1-2 cup sugar with 4 cup soft butter
Add 1 beaten egg
1 cup flour sifted with
1 teaspoon baking powder
1-2 teaspoon salt and
1 teaspoon grated orange peel
Mix dry and creamed ingredients, using

1-4 cup orange juice for liquid.

—Contributed

Pour batter over the fruit mixture and bake 45 minutes in a 350 degree oven. Serve with almond flavored whipped cream.

Commercially canned blueberries or huckleberries may be found at your grocer's. Use any tart berry you may have canned at home.

Pecan Pie

1 package of vanilla pudding mix
3 egg yolks beaten with milk required to make up pudding
2 tablespoons melted butter
1-2 teaspoon salt, vanilla and maple extract
1 cup chopped pecans
Baked pie shell

—my favorite recipe.
Cook the pudding mixture with milk, (directions on box). When thick stir in beaten egg yolks with butter and flavoring. Cook 3 minutes, cool and add the chopped nuts and 1 egg white beaten with 1-4 cup sugar, to "chiffon" the filling. Pile in the baked shell and top with a rich sweet meringue made with remaining egg white. Brown lightly and chill well.

Lyonnais potatoes with fried onion rings

3 cups cold boiled potatoes, chopped fine with 1 tablespoon onion and a handful of parsley
Fry slowly in butter, pat down and brown.
Turn the browned tasty potatoes onto a hot platter, and cover with a mound of onions, cut in thin slices, shaken into rings and fried not quite done, preferably in deep hot fat, although you can do them in the skillet.

DINNER PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Holzgrafe were hosts at a little dinner party Monday evening in their home, 2003 Grand avenue. Decorations were in keeping with a holiday theme.
Guests were Mr. and Mrs. George Kuechel of West Orange and their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hartwick and daughters, Patricia and Jackie, of South Dakota. They shared the event with Mr. and Mrs. Holzgrafe and their children, Helen and Lloyd.

ORANGE CHURCH ELECTS HEADS FOR NEW YEAR

ORANGE, Jan. 6.—The annual meeting of Trinity Episcopal church was held in the parish hall of the church Monday evening, following a covered-dish supper at 6:30 o'clock. A committee consisting of Mrs. Jeanette Morey, Mrs. Mary Jardine and Miss Floy Bradshaw were in charge of supper arrangements.

With the Rev. H. F. Softley in charge, the meeting began with reports of organizational activities, which were read by the following: Mrs. Frank Brown, for the Women's Guild; Mrs. Alfred Zapf, for the Altar Guild; W. C. Armstrong, for the Men's Club; Mrs. Myra Armstrong, for the Choir; Miss Ruth Burnette, for the Church School; Miss Ruby Armstrong, for the Young People's Fellowship.

The vestry was re-elected for the ensuing year and two new members were added. The vestry named F. E. Smith as warden; Ross Taylor, secretary; W. C. Armstrong, treasurer; and H. H. Rathvon, F. A. Martin, W. Thomas, Robert Arrowsmith as members.

A special congregational meeting was ordered to be called for the purpose of changing the status of the church from a Mission to that of a Parish.

T. E. Arrowsmith was given a special vote of thanks for his untiring labors for the church. He was elected unanimously as chairman of buildings and grounds committee.

NEW OFFICERS NAMED BY ST. JOHNS CONGREGATION

ORANGE, Jan. 6.—Election of officers for the new year and reports of activities of the church were features of an annual meeting of voters of St. John's Lutheran church last night. Fred Gerdes presided.

Re-elected to the board of elders were Paul Struck and G. G. Beckman while H. Brelje was elected as a new member. Holdover members of the board are Fred Gerdes, who was re-elected chairman of the congregation; L. J. Meyer, William Morner, Oscar A. Gunther and Alfred Huhn. The latter was re-elected as treasurer of the group. G. G. Beckman was elected secretary and Paul Heddar recording secretary.

A report of the activities of the church was given by the pastor the Rev. A. C. Bode, who stated that the church has 1445 baptized members and 1032 communicant members. During the past year 14 weddings and 14 funerals have been conducted in the church, 29 persons have been baptized and 32 confirmed, 21 children and 11 adults. The sum of $2000 is in reserve in the church treasury, it was reported.

The report of activities of the parochial school was given by the principal, Theodore Hopmann, who stated that 179 pupils are enrolled. Plans were made for a youth service on January 31.

EXILED KING RETURNS IN DEATH

AFTER lying buried for 13 years in a strange country, the body of former King Constantine of Greece has been brought back to its homeland. Twice forced to abandon his throne, this unhappy ruler retired to Palermo, Italy, where he died of a broken heart. It is said, Jan. 11, 1923.

Constantine became ruler of Greece in 1913, upon assassination of his father. He was determined to remain neutral during the World War, but Premier Venizelos, in sympathy with the Allies, forced him to abdicate on June 11, 1917. His son, Alexander, became ruler, but Venizelos was master until, after Alexander's sudden death, Venizelos was voted out of power and Constantine returned.

But he could not right the wrong done during his absence, in hurling the Greek army against the Turks, and when the Greeks were defeated in 1922, Constantine again was forced into exile.

On the return of his body to Greece, a special set of two black-bordered mourning stamps was issued, picturing the ex-king.

TWENTY-THIRTY CLUB ON VISIT TO COUNTY JAIL

Following their regular dinner meeting at El Favorito cafe, Orange, last night, with the newly elected president, Dr. Stanley Norton, in charge, some 45 members of the Santa Ana 20-30 club went on an educational tour through Orange county jail, assisted by two "guides," Jaller Theo "Judge" Lacy and Deputy Sheriff Herman Zabel, head of the sheriff's identification bureau.

Jaller Lacy explained methods of booking and handling prisoners and gave an interesting talk on early criminal cases of this county. Deputy Zabel revealed to the group, photographic methods and fingerprinting, in crime detection, explaining how fingerprints are classified. Later Zabel showed members through the radio room, Orange county's key spot from which scores of calls to police throughout Southern California are sent out daily in the business of tracking down law violators. Zabel gave a brief talk on counterfeiting methods which have been used in this county.

EX-CONVICT IS CHARGED WITH ATTACKING MAN

Charging in an assault and battery complaint that Joe Johnson, 37, of 805 East Fourth street, knocked him down and kicked him in the face and ribs, last night, W. E. Allsman, 52, of the same address, went into Orange county hospital last night, assisted by police, to obtain treatment.

Johnson, a cement finisher, asserted by officers to have just completed a five-year term in the state prison after burglary conviction, was arrested on the warrant signed by Allsman, by Officers Harry Prichard and F. L. Grouard, and released on $150 bail approved by Police Chief Floyd Howard. Johnson must appear in city court Saturday at 10 a. m. to face the charges.

Allsman's plight was discovered when he appeared at the Ravenscamp home, 712 East Fifth street, in a dazed condition. Officers Chet Gross and Paul Cozad, who rendered first aid, reported he was in "bad condition." His right eye was closed, his nose cut and bruised, both ears cut and bruised, hand cut and he suffered possible fractured ribs.

Allsman told hospital attendants he was assaulted by Johnson in a dark hallway. It was reported the alleged attack was the outgrowth of an argument over an automobile transaction.

Police News

Flames starting near the roof of the Leroy Robinson home in Garden Grove, last night damaged the building to the extent of approximately $300. According to E. J. Tobias, chief of the Garden Grove fire department, the fire was caused either by faulty electric wiring or a stove flue.

W. Pierce Rowe, 1322 Santiago street, reported to police yesterday, a small dog entered his chicken pen, killing 27 Rhode Island red chickens. Officers believed the animal might have been a weasel. The animal dug a small hole under the fence, to reach the chickens.

Burglars made an unsuccessful attempt to enter the L. D. Coffing company garage, 811 East Fifth street, Monday night or early yesterday morning, city police were informed yesterday. Officers Charles Wolford and Charles Neer investigating, found that someone had crawled over a fence leading from Spurgeon street to a rear window of the place, attempted to break the window, but failed. The glass of the window contained wire mesh and the noise made by the burglars in the attempt, apparently frightened them away before entrance was gained.

Jack Wood, 931 Spurgeon, reported to police yesterday afternoon that sometime during the afternoon, thieves stole a tool box and set of socket wrenches, marked "Harper," and valued at $35, from his car, parked at a wrecking yard, Second and Garfield.

Worried that his ex-wife of Brea, might have met with foul play because she did not return to Brea last night, M. Davis of that town called upon sheriff's officers this morning to conduct an investigation. At 11:15 today, Mrs. Davis called the sheriff's officers, explaining she had driven her car into some mud during the night and got stuck in it.

George Yanase, Route 2, Box 204B, Santa Ana, yesterday reported to sheriff's officers that someone, between December 29 and yesterday, broke into his vegetable stand, near his place, and stole a twin-eight Motorola radio, No. 61789, and the light globes in the place.

Don't Irritate Gas Blowing
If you want to REALLY GET RID of GAS and terrible bloating you won't do it with harsh, irritating alkalies and gas tablets. Most gas is in the upper bowel and is due to indigestion. Gas is caused by bacteria in the bowels. Adierka acts where ordinary laxatives do not even reach. Does not grip—does not irritate. Just use adierka.

NOTED AUTHOR HEARD AT ANAHEIM EBELL MEETING

ANAHEIM, Jan. 6.—Revealing a glimpse of past experiences, Mrs. Marguerite Harrison, well known author of "There's Always Tomorrow," told of Christmases she has known when she spoke Monday afternoon at the meeting of the Anaheim Ebell club. Simplicity in style, choice of words, and attitude was the keynote of the informal discussion in which Mrs. Harrison told of Christmas in foreign lands as stages in her own education for international tolerance, sympathy, and understanding.

Mrs. Harrison's informal talk was the climax to an interesting afternoon's meeting which opened at 12:30 o'clock with luncheon in the dining room.

The luncheon program, introduced by Mrs. William P. Webb, Jr., presented by Mrs. Ralph M. Valtz, a member of the club, who sang "Cradle Song," "In Italy," and "Gaze with the Delicate Air." She was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Kate E. McCullah, Mrs. Waltz gave a lovely afternoon dress of black with a large bouquet of deep pink at her shoulder.

Mrs. R. N. Ashley, curator, called for the announcements of the section leaders. Mrs. Francis Elliott, reported Mrs. Marie Webster, domestic science teacher of Fremont school, will be the speaker for the section on January 11. Mrs. Fred Weisel announced two speakers for the meeting on January 25. Floyd McCracken of the Anaheim Bulletin, and Mrs. Leslie Kimmell of Laguna Beach will review their modern books.

Mrs. A. P. M. Brown, program chairman, introduced Mrs. Harrison during the business meeting. The stage was attractively appointed with tall bouquets of gay orange flowers and white tapers.

Hostesses for the day included Mrs. Arthur A. Kemper and Mrs. Ben Kaulbars as chairmen, with Mrs. C. Jacoby, Miss Helen Jeffery, Mrs. B. B. Johnson, Mrs. Bertha Johnston, Mrs. H. A. Johnston, Mrs. E. M. Kenth, Mrs. John Keltenberger, Mrs. Thomas Kemp, Mrs. E. H. Kersten, Mrs. W. G. Kilpatrick, Mrs. Sam Kraemer, Jr., Mrs. A. P. LeTournelle, Mrs. A. L. Lewis, Mrs. G. Lindell, Mrs. Myrtle Lloyd, Mrs. J. B. Luth, Mrs. Frank Machleb, and Mrs. Henry Mang, Jr.

ROOSEVELT'S SON MADE SECRETARY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—(UP)—The White House today announced the president's son, James Roosevelt, would be installed July 1 as a full-fledged secretary to President Roosevelt.

At present, young Roosevelt is acting in a secretarial capacity with the title of administrative officer of the White House staff. His elevation to the rank of a secretary on July 1 will return the White House secretariat to a staff of three which it has not had since the death of Louis McHenry Howe.

WARNS OF FUMIGATION
Firemen warned the police department yesterday afternoon that a house at 809 North Ross, is being fumigated and it will not be safe to enter the place before tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock.

SUES LANDLADY OVER ARREST

G. W. Crocker, of Laguna Beach, who charged that his landlady, Bella Allen, violently abused him on several occasions and finally caused his arrest on a charge of stealing some of her personal property, today filed suit in superior court against her, asking $5025 damages for malicious prosecution.

Crocker leased a house at Laguna Beach from the defendant last July 1 and lived there until September 12, he stated. Mrs. Allen called several times and abused him, she alleges, stating that he finally ordered her off the premises on September 6.

On September 10, he alleges she called him a crook, expressed her desire that he move from the house, and told others he had stolen some of her property. On October 6, after he had moved, she caused his arrest on a petty theft charge, he claims.

The case was set for trial before Justice C. C. Cravath at Laguna Beach November 4, but Mrs. Allen assertedly did not appear to press the charge and it was dismissed.

Crocker asks damages for humiliation, injury to his reputation, and loss of time from his business.

SPANISH VETS AND AUXILIARY INSTALL HEADS

Calumet camp, United Spanish War Veterans last night accepted three new members by muster, elected three others to become members, received reports of the adjutant and quartermaster and had joint installation ceremonies with Calumet auxiliary.

Forty-six outgoing and incoming officers of the camp and auxiliary met at the Daniger tea room at 8 p. m. for dinner and then went to the Knights of Columbus hall for a short business session for each and then met in joint session for installation of the officers for 1937.

At the business session, Jacob B. Wine, who was nominated at the last previous meeting for officer of the day to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of the comrade elected to that position, was duly elected to be the holder of that position for this year.

Three new members were taken into the camp by muster, having been previously elected. They were: Willard C. Leland, of Huntington Beach; Willie A. Settle, of El Modena; and Oliver C. Terry, of Orange. There were three applicants for membership.

August J. Galle, of Sunset Beach; William W. Prichard, of Route 1, Anaheim; and Frederick Schlegel, of Route 3, Anaheim.

The meeting was attended by a large number of members of the camp, 30 visitors and two distinguished guests who were paid high honors. They were William J. Werner, department inspector, and Harry C. Holderman, national aide.

Upwards of 150 were at the joint installation of officers where Past Commander Robert M. Keyes, of Long Beach, acted as installing officer with Past Commander Walter E. Lynch, also of Long Beach, acting as master of ceremonies. Those installed were: Charles I. Reagan, commander; Hanigan C. Moberly, Senior Vice; Albert P. Dresser, Junior Vice; Chas. Dixon, Adjutant; William Brown, Quartermaster; James A. Randel, Trustee for three years; Jacob B. Wine, Officer of the Day; Commander C. Graham, Officer of the Guard; Charles W. Winter, Chaplain; Frank P. Rowe, Patriotic Instructor; Marjorie C. Cooper, Historian; Kirk M. Sturdevant, Sergeant-Major; Adolph Erickson, Quartermaster Sergeant; Charley A. Lindquist, Senior Color Sergeant; James W. Isbell, Junior Color Sergeant, and George W. Area, Chief Musician.

A Junior Past Commander James A. Randel was presented with a Past Commander's badge, given to him by the Camp; a scrap book containing the publicity clippings of his year, by Adjutant Dixon, and a gold ring with the emblem of the United War Veterans as a setting, given him by Adjutant Dixon and William Brown jointly.

Commander Reagan eulogized the administration of 1936 and told some of his plans for 1937. Visitors were present from Hollywood, Los Angeles, Long Beach, Oceanside, Garden Grove, Orange, Anaheim and Fullerton.

The Quartermaster's annual report showed the Camp's finances to be in a healthy condition and that of the Adjutant showed losses for the year 1936 to be eight, the gain 65, leaving a net gain in membership of fifty-seven or a 54 per cent increase, probably the largest percentage of increase in the State of California and for which the Department Adjutant sent a congratulatory letter. Adjutant Dixon and Quartermaster Brown brought in 53 of the 55 members added to the roster.

Friday night, the Drum Corps will leave the K. C. Hall at 6:45 o'clock to take members to Corona where Past Department Commander and Past Commander Frank P. Rowe will install the officers.

FREIGHTER SAILS WITH WAR SUPPLIES

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—(UP)—The Spanish freighter Mar Cantabrico, bound for Spain with a cargo of airplanes and supplies for the Spanish loyalists, was halted today off Sandy Hook by U. S. marshals aboard the coast guard cutter Icarus, but later was permitted to proceed on radioed instructions from coast guard headquarters.

After she sailed, U. S. marshals applied for a coast guard vessel in which to pursue the Spanish ship with a writ of attachment signed by Federal Judge Grover M. Moscovitz in Brooklyn.

The writ, it was said, was obtained by Bert Aosta and Gordon Berry, American aviators, who served the loyalists until recently and are now attempting to obtain unpaid salaries.

After the Icarus had stopped the steamer, government officials decided, however, that the writ was not sufficient authorization to stop the vessel. They instructed the Icarus to return alone.

PEARL JOHN seemed to have changed in the few minutes he had been absent. Gone was the care-free good humor that had been his most attractive characteristic.

"I'm sending two men down the trail to Santa Fe tonight," Pearl John went on. "They can probably get through, even though it is storming again. The officers will be here tomorrow morning, at the latest."

"I'm glad you've taken such a stand, de Forest," remarked Professor Shaw, coming into the room just then. "You wished to see me?"

"To ask if you have the obsidian knife," said Pearl John. "What do you mean?" the professor countered.

"Just this. As you already know, the knife has been taken again by some unknown person. Since you were so interested in it, perhaps you will be kind enough to hand it over now."

FOR a moment the professor did not answer, though everyone in the room waited breathlessly for his words. Then he said, matter-of-factly, "I not only do not have the artifact in my possession, but I did not know it was any place but where we all saw it last."

The younger man's face turned purple and, for a minute, Bob thought he was going to spring the state of New Mexico from taking my family's money in payment for it, just the same, snapped de Forest. "The fact remains that you think you have reason to kill any of us, if you took the notion, although we've housed you and fed you most of your life."

"Yes, but that didn't prevent the state of New Mexico from taking my family's money in payment for it, just the same, snapped de Forest. "The fact remains that you think you have reason to kill any of us, if you took the notion, although we've housed you and fed you most of your life."

"They hate Broken Shield," the man answered. "They would drive him from mesa. My tribe always live on Thunder Mesa. Great Spirit give it for their land."

Calavo Farmers To Hold Annual Parley

LA HABRA, Jan. 6.—Calavo Growers of this district will hold a meeting at the Washington school auditorium on Monday evening, Jan. 11th, at 7:30 p. m. At this time Manager George B. Hodgkin, of the grower marketing cooperative, will discuss the present and future of the marketing outlook for the avocado industry this coming year and give his annual report on the past season's activities.

A director to represent this district on the 1937 directorate of the industry's marketing cooperative, will also be elected at this meeting.

This district comprises growers in Placentia, Yorba Linda, Anaheim, Fullerton, Brea, La Habra, La Habra Heights, Whittier and Rivera.

RESET ARSON CASE HEARING

The second trial of E. R. Tabor, charged with arson in connection with the burning of his Huntington Beach apartment house in 1932, was reset for January 26, after Tabor, who had pleaded illness for not appearing in court Monday, and again Tuesday morning, for trial, came into court yesterday afternoon to avoid arrest by bench warrant.

Walking with a cane and assisted by a nurse, Tabor appeared before Superior Judge James L. Allen, who, that morning, had forfeited Tabor's $10,000 bond and ordered the bench warrant issued. The warrant was held up on the promise of Tabor's attorney, J. C. Burke, to get him into court without delay.

After Tabor appeared and the new trial date was set, the court restored Tabor's bond and vacated the forfeiture.

Tabor was once convicted of the arson charge in 1932, but won a new trial on appeal. The second trial date was postponed several times on his plea of illness, but Dr. John Ball, sent to examine him Monday, reported that Tabor was able to come to court.

HISTORICAL GROUP TO ELECT

Directors for the coming year will be elected Friday night when members of the Orange County Historical society hold their annual meeting in the Towers Memorial museum.

The meeting will start at 7:30 o'clock, according to S. M. Davis, secretary of the organization. Following the business session a program, featuring two speakers, will be presented, T. E. Stephenson will talk on "A Horse Race of 1853" and William McPherson will discuss "Recent California Books."

FINANCIAL AND MARKET NEWS

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—(U.I.) Stocks and bonds made an irregular advance in moderate trading today, while cotton futures were firm and grains were irregular in a fractional area.

Wall Street appraised the Presidents' message as about in line with the expectations of the market. The list was dull and steady, while the steel market was active in the financial district and continued in that strain to the close as the considerable group of new iron-making plants.

Traders bought utilities stocks throughout the day. National Power & Light was active at 12 1/2 %.

American Telephone & Telegraph was a point on heavy turnover.

Automobile issues continued to lead the fact that labor and the motor companies had not got together in their dispute.

Road issues had a period of strength. Atchafon touched 7 1/2 % up.

New York Central at its high was up a point.

Oils were steady to firm with Ohio Oil Company high for the day.

U. S. and Socoy-Vacuum continued active.

U. S. Steel touched 7 1/2 % off 1 1/2 before meeting moderate support. Other steels were irregular. Iron Anker placed the national steel operating

WASHING WITH FIRE

The American Weekly has a very interesting article explaining that there has been a new yarn produced, made of asbestos so that clothes can be made with asbestos yarn and cleaned by burning out the oil and dirt without burning the yarn or the non-combustible dye, with which the clothes are colored.

If washing could be eliminated, it would be a great elimination of drudgery.

So far, about the lightest weight asbestos material that has been made is equivalent to that of heavy muslin.

ONLY BLUFFING

It must have occurred to a good many readers before this that a vast amount of bluffing has been going on in connection with German protests over the stopping of German merchant ships by Spanish loyalist warships.

Germany has made divers threats to use force. Such use of force would mean war between Germany and the Madrid government. But how under the shining sun could such a war be carried on?

German forces could not reach Spain by land without consent of the French army. They could not reach Spain by sea without the consent of the British navy. Such consent obviously will never be given.

So, unless Hitler is ready to fight both Britain and France, he must be running a big bluff. And bluffing is sound tactics only when you are sure that nobody will call you.

SYNDICALISM LAW

The Supreme Court's unanimous decision on the Oregon Criminal Syndicalism Law, setting aside its constitutionality, is of importance to all lovers of liberty.

Chief Justice Hughes's declaration, on behalf of the court, that "peaceable assembly for lawful discussion cannot be made a crime" is regarded as most significant, since it applies specifically to a Communist subscribing to his party's principles of overthrow of capitalist government by force.

There is probably no one in the country who is better posted on what real liberty means than Dr. Everett Dean Martin of Claremont College, who will speak here at the Federal Forum on January 11.

In his book, "Liberty", he says, "Assuming that the foolish could be protected by the denial of free speech, truth could not possibly be the gainer thereby, for the pursuit of truth necessarily takes place in the open."

He also says, "Men who are officially occupied with the prevention of error have little time for the pursuit of truth."

SPEEDING UP THE LAW

Washington dispatches make it seem very doubtful that congress will take any action to limit the U. S. supreme court's right to pass on federal legislation. But it is reported that much sentiment is developing in favor of a law that would increase the supreme court's work on constitutional cases, instead of diminishing it.

What is being proposed, in fact, is a law to confine constitutional issues to the supreme court, thus cutting out all lower court delays.

As things are now, if you wish to test a law's constitutionality, you file suit in the lower court. In a year or so, you get a decision. This, in all likelihood, is carried to the court of appeals.

After another six months or more, that court hands down its decision. That, in turn, is carried along to the supreme court, which has the final say.

Very, very rarely does the ruling of a lower court as to a law's constitutionality stand by itself.

So there is good sense in the suggestion that all such cases be confined to the supreme court from the start. Decision on weighty constitutional issues should be much speedier under such system.

AN IMPORTANT DECISION

Alfred P. Sloan, jr., President of General Motors Corporation, has performed a great service to every citizen in the United States. He is not willing, as most business men are, to sell the liberty and rights of men and women into servitude, in order to make a little quick profit, as Lenin accuses all business men of being willing to do.

In his answer to the demand for a closed shop in the General Motors plant, he says, "The company will not recognize any union as a sole bargaining agency of its workers. Have no fear that any union or any labor dictator will dominate the plants of the General Motors corporation. No General Motors worker need join any organization to get a job or keep a job."

It is generally conceded that the automobile industry pays higher wages than any unionized industry, with the possible exception of one or two unionized industries that have a very restricted limitation to membership and apprenticeships.

Mr. Sloan recognizes there can be no efficiency if the men themselves are to be the judges as to efficiency.

Some people complain that Sloan does not earn his salary but this decision is worth to society all the salary that Sloan has ever drawn from General Motors.

"We Americans, of all nations on earth, are the most obsessed with regulatory ideas,"—Everett Dean Martin.

FLAW OF MACHINE AGE

Whatever this modern era of technology may do for us, it does leave us completely at the mercy of mechanical breakdowns. Never was the fact more strikingly illustrated than by the failure of the electric power system at Newark, N. J., the other day.

A small fire, unimportant in itself, swept a substation and cut off the power line which brought current into Newark. For 5½ hours the city was dark.

Elevators stopped running, lights went out, movies were suspended, hospital service was checked, radios went off, traffic lights stopped blinking, and the thousand-and-one little gadgets that run by electricity ceased to operate.

Service was resumed before anything very terrible happened. But how graphically does the incident show our utter dependence on the smooth working of the intricate machinery on which we have built our civilization!

One little accident can mean chaos for an entire city.

PROPERTY HAS NO RIGHTS

Evidently "Judd" was correct when he said that we could make our editorials fifty per cent clearer and no one would know what we were trying to say.

In a letter to the Clearing House, by Walter Flockton, he says that we are forever putting property rights before human rights.

We have repeatedly said that property has no rights; that people have rights in property. Property is entitled to no protection, no profits, unless it helps cheapen the comforts of life. If it helps to reduce the cost of things for the consumer, then the owner of this property is entitled to a reward. Otherwise, it ceases, in reality, to be capital—property.

Again, we say property has no rights but civilization has taught us that we are all much better off if human beings have rights in property. This is necessary in order to make it to the advantage of people to abstain from consuming immediately what is produced so that there can be more and more tools and equipment to make life more pleasant.

GLENN FRANK'S TRIAL

Glenn Frank, who writes for newspapers, his column appearing in The Register, is to be tried, beginning this week, as to whether he will remain at the head of Wisconsin University. He has held the position for eleven years.

It would seem to one who does not have the details at hand that Frank, years ago, was selected for his liberal or loose thinking. This conclusion comes from reading his book, "America Must Choose", and his column. He never seems to think very clearly. It is evident, however, that he got the position from a political standpoint; that he is not radical or liberal enough to suit the politicians now in charge.

Dr. Frank is evidently honest enough that he will not go farther than he believes, in order to hold his job.

As an illustration of his loose thinking, he had an article in Monday's Register in which he took exception to Mr. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago. It is Mr. Hutchins' contention that the sole, direct objective of college and university training should be the cultivation of the intellect.

Dr. Frank goes on to say a lot of other things that he believes education should include.

It would seem that if a man had a cultured intellect, it would include all the other things that Dr. Frank mentions.

DEFINITELY UPWARD—THEN WHAT?

Santa Ana, along with most of the nation, is definitely going upward in the field of business and in the field which is usually a good meter upon which business often is registered—the construction field.

There's no doubt about Santa Ana business and its present direction, toward more prosperous times. The figures of the Santa Ana situation were revealed in black and white, the other day, upon the annual report of the building department. In 1936, building here was ahead of all records since 1930; in 1936, 807 permits were issued by the building department for construction valued at $1,164,175. In 1935, 847 permits were issued but for construction valued at $932,309. In December, 1936, the valuation of construction started, was $108,978, while December, 1935, registered a valuation of only $18,875.

Now, the vital question is—how long will it be—four years? Ten years?—until the trend is definitely downward? If history repeats itself, and it always has, then we certainly must expect more depressions. Perhaps, some day we will understand the primary cause of depressions sufficiently to avoid them. Our predecessors did not understand sufficiently, as history shows.

Yes, we advise carrying forward, pushing forward, along with this present upward trend. But let us not forget so easily as we, and our predecessors, have forgotten in the past. After all, we should have much more to remember if historians are right in stating this latest depression was one of the greatest. If we expect to progress to better living standards in the future, we cannot afford to forget.

The World Revolutionist

It Seems to Me
by
HEYWOOD BROWN

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Jan. 6.—The highest institution of learning hereabouts is known to the natives as Beaverboard college. Miami University is so designated because the classes are held in one large building, and the partitions are thin, since the endowment funds are low. And so sometimes an idle whisper will sweep through the student body like measles or chicken-pox.

For instance, there is the current rumor that any co-ed can pass a certain course if she will hold hands with the professor. To me it seems a slight sacrifice to make for the sake of a liberal education, and yet they say that some of the girls fail. Once I bought a drink of whiskey for my preceptor in Shakespeare and I flunked just the same.

But no matter how thin the walls of Miami university may be, no scandal has ever laid a hand upon any member of the football team. Indeed, this college has solved the difficult problem of what to do with the football players in the off season. This is a question which perplexes the authorities on every campus. Naturally no farsighted dean wants to have the athletes hanging around the classrooms and mingling with the students.

Just Force of Habit

I remember that in one of the middle western colleges there was quite a scandal because an all-America tackle insisted on coming regularly to his Chaucer course. He explained that it was the only place he could sleep, and, besides, his rooms were without steam heat. Still, it created a bad impression when the big fellow was roused from slumber by a pertinent question concerning the Knight's Tale and replied drowsily, "Around my end." The poor fellow had been dreaming about the Purdue game. In Oregon an effort has been made to teach the boys to hibernate after the manner of the grizzlies, but so far it has been only partially successful.

Miami has a better plan. Eight members of the eleven are employed at the West Flagler track as attendants to the racing dogs. The contact is helpful in both a physical and a spiritual way. The work keeps the athletes in the open air and they learn by experience the true meaning of the phrase, "As clean as a hound's tooth."

And again it is possible that they are getting something of the amateur spirit of the animals they serve. After all, the dogs run without hope of financial reward, and that is an excellent lesson for the football players.

A Fair Exchange

On the other hand, I think it is only fair to say that the greyhounds also profit a little by being associated with college boys. The dogs of West Flagler are smarter than those at other tracks because they have had a whiff of the higher education. They tell me they can spot a freshman at a hundred yards and that they will bite him in a minute. They merely growl at sophomores.

But this does not mark the limit of what the dogs have learned by having football players as their pals.

Little Benny's
Note Book

BY LEE PAPE

Pop was in back of the sporting page blowing smoke over, and I said, Hay pop?

Do you mean me? pop said. Meaning what, and I said, I just made up my mind I think I'll be a doctor when I grow up and have to be something.

You couldn't be anything more useful, pop said. It's estimated that doctors keep down the death rate 50 per cent by the simple expedient of sending in regular monthly bills, so that people are afraid to get sick, and where there's no sickness there's no foothold for germs, he said, and I said, O well, I think I guess I'll change my mind and be a lawyer, because doctors have to get out of bed too much, and that's the worst thing I'm good at.

Lawyers are also valuable citizens, pop said. Thousands of young lawyers at this very moment are sitting in their cheerless offices consoling themselves with the thought that millions of people are treating each other more justly than they would if they didn't know that a lawsuit would send them to jail if they lost it and to the poorhouse if they won it, he said, and I said, Anyway, lawyers have to study too hard to learn all the rules and things, and besides, Leroy Shooter's father is a lawyer and I wouldn't want to look like him or even wawk like him. I'm going to be a architect, I said.

Some of my best friends are architects, pop said. The real estate industry is having a difficult time, but without the aid of the architects it would topple over the verge of collapse into abject ruin, he said, and I said, How do you mean, do you mean nobody could build houses unless the architects drew a picture of them first to show how they was suppose to look?

Not quite, pop said. I mean that people who start out to build their own house in these remarkable times show the architect's beautiful plans to a bidder, take one look at the bidder's estimate and then hastily buy somebody else's 2 hand house from a real estate man who was bizzily starving to death, and now do your lessons, he said.

Wich I did, deciding I'd rather be a glass blower anyways.

OUR CHILDREN

BY ANGELO PATRI

GOING TO THE STORE

There are children whose mothers dread to take them near a store because, once inside it, they refuse to leave until they are given whatever their fancy chooses.

Any attempt to get them to move along, to forget about buying the thing they do not need and ought not to have, ends in a scene that embarrasses everybody within ear-shot. In order to escape the frantic mother will buy the thing and hand it to him, with, "Next time you stay home."

But he cannot be left home next time, perhaps. There may be nobody there to take care of him, and anyway, leaving him home will not teach him how to behave in the store. He has to go there and he has to learn to look at things, like them and leave them where they are. It is best to begin with that lesson at home by teaching him to look at things as they stand on the shelves and to see things without longing to possess them. It is a hard lesson for most little children, but they have to learn it if they are ever to grow up.

The child's first experience with the store should be from the outside, window shopping. Take him to see a window that is not so full that it blurs instead of showing. Talk about the things he sees there, and make not the slightest suggestion of ownership. Should he imply that he would like to have that red ball or the blue wagon, be interested and say, "It would be very nice. However, your wagon is very nice and your ball is a beauty. It's good you have them. See that nice dog the lady over there has. Looks like your Jeff, doesn't he? We'd best be going home now. We'll go slowly and see what is in the Pea Shop window today."

Save the buying occasion for a treat. Maybe a trip to the five-and-ten on a birthday. Decide with the child what it is he wants to buy. A few days before buying it take him to look at what the other shops have, price them, and even speak of their quality.

Then decide that the best place to go is where he likes to go most, the five-and-ten or the Toy Shop. Once in the shop go directly to the counter where the balls are, or the books, whichever he wants. Tell the clerk what is wanted, ask to be shown a selection of three, from which the child is to make his choice. This choice is important in the training. One article selected by the clerk or the adult in charge, will not serve. Two are likely to offer little feeling of choice. Three will be about right. More will only lead to confusion. Once the choice is made, let the child pay for it out of his pocket, take the package, say "Thank you," and go your way. Don't stay in the shop to look around. Leave when the purchase is made.

Don't make a practice of buying things for the child you take to the store. That is what teaches him to expect you to buy whatever he thinks he wants. Buy him something only after planning with him, and see that it is something he can enjoy and use. Should he ask for something he sees, shake your head, say nothing, and get away from there as quickly as possible. Don't say anything about it later unless he insists. Then you will have to tell him that he never gets things he asks for in the store, and that it is bad manners to expect it. Then stick to it.

Editor, Register,

Dear Sir: You seem to be starting the New Year right, I will say that it takes a mind like yours to arouse people into active thought, which we agree or disagree. It is alarming to know, that all that has taken place in the last decade was due to only 3 per cent of the people of this world. I mean in the way of inventions, and the things that pertain to progress. Showing the amount of minds that think on intellectual and constructive lines. However, in regard to how much is your home worth if you don't have the right to occupy it, or employ people in it you wish to employ. The Law would take care of that question. If you did not employ the right kind of people to live in it, I mean if their motives were any other than well meaning, honest and respectable. You are forever putting "Property Rights" before "Human Rights." As to the cost of this strike that rests almost entirely on the ship owners, as the strikers have very little choice, only to submit. To strike seems to be their only weapon, to defend themselves against the outrage of a meagre living for their efforts. You forget, if you did that the employers are doing the workers a favor by even allowing them to have a job. Who creates wealth, the man with the whip, or the one with the tools? Where does the ship owner or any other capitalist get his palaces, yachts and trips abroad, from, while his wealth is being made by those that are privileged to stay on the job and work? I think the masses are waking up, and refuse to be kidded any longer. The gap is too wide between the rich and the poor. You can use all the economics you please, that still remains and always will until there is a more even distribution of wealth. If you look back you will see that if it had not been for strikers there would not be any 8-hour law or a standard wage scale, or even decent working conditions, not that we advocate strikes, but the worker has to cry out "Of villany ye have taught us." Of business failures, you quote Frank Garbutt as saying all business adventures fail, blaming same on causes and results of progress, which I think is a gross insult to the law of "cause and effect." Nature's laws are not the survival of the fittest. It is true there are parasites even in nature, but nothing compared with man. Nature is bounteous, and abundant, always giving a thousand fold, to take care of consumption until its next yield, providing the laws of nature are observed. Nature also provides each of its kind a weapon to combat any foreign invasion, so long as man does not rob it of that weapon. There are the Axioms people are paying for, appealing to the emotions, instead of using the higher intellect, and obeying the Golden Rule of "How low wages should be." In my opinion they should be based on the amount of profit produced by their labor. If a man has any kind of business that does not yield enough for all, he has no right in business any more than the people that are helping to create production. In this case the business man ceases to be an individual, as it is "Ours, Not Mine." The profit-sharing system has been tried and proven to be a profitable thing. As matrimony has become "A Matter of Money" so is "Business a Matter of Profits."

Respectfully yours,
WALTER FLOCKTON.
